SLAYER'S VICTIM FOUGHT

Prosecution Declares Student Moved Girl's Body to Indicate That She Died Peacefully

By International News Service.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Realizing that a hard fight will be made to save William H. Orpet, the University of Wisconsin student and former Lancaster, Mass., youth, accused of the murder of Marian Frances Lambert, the Lake County authorities have been working with redoubled energy in their effort to fasten the crime upon the young man.

As a result, it was announced today that the prosecution was in possession of evidence to prove that after the Lambert girl was dead, Orpet rearranged her body so that it would appear she died peacefully.

This statement was based on the discovery of poison crystals beneath the fingernails of her right hand, the hand that held her school books when her body was found. The prosecution announced that it would show conclusively that the girl fought against taking the poison, and that after she was dead Orpet "posed" her body in the attitude of peaceful death.

Detectives who were searching Madison for a third girl, supposed to have been involved with Orpet in addition to Miss Lambert and Miss Celestia Youker of De Kalb, who was reported engaged to marry the accused student, declared today that they had uncovered evidence that Orpet had requested a student friend to find a physician who would visit a girl friend of his.

Attention of the detectives today was centred on trying to find the bottle that contained the poison which killed Miss Lambert. On the theory Orpet tossed it from the train on his way back to Madison, men were sent out today to

Brandeis Learned, High Minded and Able, Says Whipple

AS a lawyer, Mr. Brandeis is able and learned. As a man, he is conscientious and high minded. The feature of his career which is most striking and remarkable has been his unselfish and unswerving devotion to his social, moral and industrial uplift of the lowly and less fortunate of our people.

I believe that on the supreme bench of the United States he will exert a strong influence in establishing the ideals to which he has devoted his recent years.—Sherman L. Whipple's tribute to Louis D. Brandeis in Washington today.

LAMBERT CASE STUDIED BY DOROTHY DIX

By DOROTHY DIX.

The latest revelations in the Lake Forest tragedy, in which a young college boy is accused of having murdered his eighteen-year-old sweetheart, make it one of the strangest and weirdest romances of crime of modern times.

When the little schoolgirl after a tryst with her boy lover was found dead under a tree with her school books cuddled up in the hollow of her arms, it was at once believed that one more weak and trusting woman had loved not wisely but too well, as so many of her sex have done before her, and that she had either killed herself or been slain to hide a shameful secret.

It is so pitifully common a solu-

Motorcycle Dealers Know Where to Advertise

The men who sell motorcycles have keen judgment. They know how to reach the people, and they know how to reach them quickly.

That is why they advertise their new and used motorcycles in the classified columns of the Boston AMERICAN. They don't advertise for pleasure or pride but to sell their machines. They know that more people read the Sunday AMERICAN than any other Sunday paper in Greater Boston. And they know, too, that thousands of this army of readers constantly read the classified columns for bargains in motor vehicles of all sorts.

The AMERICAN'S Classified Section is becoming more and more interesting and valuable. More and better bargains and opportunities are to be found in it from day to day and from week to week. The most profitable habit you can form is to read

Leaders of Boston Bar Differ in Their Estimates of Mr. Brandeis Before Senate Sub-Committee

Washington, Feb. 17.—Sherman L. Whipple of Boston appeared today as a witness before the sub-committee of the Senate Committee on the Judiciary, and praised Louis D. Brandeis, President Wilson's nominee to the Supreme Court.

Moorfield Storey, former president of the American Bar Association, and of the Massachusetts Bar Association, appeared in opposition to the nomination of Mr. Brandeis.

Mr. Whipple spoke of Brandeis as one of New England's leading lawyers, and had read into the record a public statement he made on the occasion of the nomination of Brandeis, as follows:

"As a lawyer, Mr. Brandeis is able and learned. As a man he is conscientious and high-minded. The feature of his career which is most striking and remarkable has been his unselfish and unswerving devotion to his social, moral and industrial uplift of the lowly and less fortunate of our people.

MISS PEW TO WED NASON GARFIELD

Miss Harriet Winchester Pew, daughter of General and Mrs. William A. Pew of Salem, and Nason Garfield of Cambridge, will be married in Grace Church, Salem, Saturday afternoon. Young Garfield is the son of President Garfield of Williams College, and a grandson of James A. Garfield. The Rev. James D. Franks will officiate, assisted by Bishop T. de Wolf Perry of Rhode Island.

HARVARD STUDENT PAYS SPEED FINE

Fred H. Harvey, a Harvard student, living at Claverly Hall, appeared before the Cambridge District Court today and paid a fine of $25 for refusing to stop his automobile when told to do so by Officer Belyea of Arlington. Belyea said Harvey was whizzing through Arlington last night at about a mile a minute speed and gave him the laugh when he held up his hand as a signal to stop. He telephoned Cambridge and Harvey was arrested on his arrival.

Mayberry Says B. & M. System Must Reorganize

George L. Mayberry, representing the Federal-appointed trustees of the Boston & Maine Railroad, and Philip Dexter, speaking for the Boston & Lowell, declared to the Committee on Railroads at the State House today that reorganization of the Boston & Maine is absolutely necessary to insure the final success of the system.

To repeal the reorganization bill of last year, as urged today by certain minority stockholders, would be fatal to the Boston & Maine, they declared.

"I want this committee to believe," said Mr. Mayberry, "that while the lessee are a great burden, which must be met in good years and bad, there are other great outstanding financial features that demand the reorganization of the Boston & Maine.

"The Boston & Maine needs money to make itself a modern railroad. It needs new cars, new equipment, new tracks and bridges. Until it is properly equipped it cannot make money continuously.

"When President Hustis of the Boston & Maine went to the Boston & Albany, he expended $12,000,000 to build up that road. He has got to do the same thing here to make the Boston & Maine pay as he made the Boston & Albany pay."

Mr. Dexter estimated that it will require $20,000,000 to put the Boston & Maine in shape.

FLOOD REFUGEES REACH NATCHEZ

Natchez, Miss., Feb. 17.—The first relief train from the flooded districts in Louisiana arrived today at Vidalia, across the Mississippi River from this city. It was composed of twenty-five cars loaded with passengers, many of them cold and hungry. Behind the passenger train comes a freight of fifty cars loaded with live stock and fowls. Natchez today was caring for 1,000 refugees. The steamer Mississippi, with the Federal flood control committee on board, arrived today.

GIVEN 8 MONTHS ON THEFT CHARGE

John Ponce, of Margaret street, West End, was today sentenced to eight months in the House of Correction for breaking and entering the home of Mrs. Hyman Shapiro, of No. 26 Lowell street, West End. He appealed and was held in $1,000. Mrs. Shapiro testified that she said she saw two men leaving the house and that she grappled with Ponce and held him until the police arrived. The other man escaped with eight silver cups and heirlooms.

POLISH FAMILIES REPORTED SAFE

Amazing Letter from the Hunted Anarchist Admits He Attempted Wholesale Murder in Chicago

The Chicago police today telephoned the Boston police to use every effort in locating Jean Crones and also a Cambridge man, who is alleged to have seen Crones on the streets of Boston yesterday. Crones is charged with poisoning the soup of many prominent laymen and priests at a banquet in Chicago given in honor of Archbishop Mundelein.

As a result the Boston police have spread a drag net throughout the city and every suspicious character is being rounded up.

As a partial proof that Crones is actually in the East a New York newspaper publishes today a letter which purports to be from Crones, in which the writer admits preparing poisons. The letter was postmarked at New York at midnight on Tuesday. Many think the letter is from Crones.

The Boston clew was furnished by a Cambridge man who claims to have worked with Crones in the University Club, Chicago, up to six months ago.

This man says he met Crones and talked with him in front of the South Station last night.

His story follows:

"I spoke to Crones and I heard his voice and I know I made no mistake, although Crones jerked himself free of my grasp and told me to mind my own business as he hurried on toward South Boston.

"I am sure it was Crones, because I worked with him in New York city two years ago, and we were members of the I. W. W. and the Waiters' Union.

"I was taken sick in Chicago, and Crones helped me to make up my fare back to Boston. We were very good friends, but I ask you now to conceal my name for I fear I will be killed by his compatriots if I should be suspected of betraying him.

SURE IT WAS CRONES.

"Crones is an Italian, but he has a white and ruddy complexion like a Frenchman. He has shaven off his mustache, but that did not deceive me, although it changed his appearance greatly.

"He wore a black velour hat, a turned down white collar, a black overcoat, black suit and black shoes with rubbers over them. He wore kid gloves having fur at the wristbands. He carried a leather music bag under his overcoat.

"I happened to be at the South station and I saw Crones coming out of the trainshed and followed him out into Summer street extension.

"As he turned to go in the direction of South Boston, across the bridge by the Commonwealth Docks,

Latest War Bulletins

Constantinople, Feb. 17.—The loss of 2,000 British troops near Kut-el-Amara is reported by the War Office today in the following statement. "Irak front—Turkish airmen flew over the enemy's batteries at Kut-el-Amara and dropped twelve bombs which did much damage. The enemy lost 2,000 men and 300 animals of burden in a fight in which they were defeated near Batilia. Near Aden a detachment of the enemy was annihilated."

Paris, Feb. 17.—Crown Prince Frederick William has been placed in command of the German armies in Alsace-Lorraine as well as that in the Argonne, according to the Echo De Paris.

Paris, Feb. 17.—There was no fighting of consequence on the west front last night, the French War Office reported today. The following communique was given out: "There was no event of any importance during the course of the night."

Bucharest, Feb. 17.—Fifty thousand German and Bulgarian troops have been concentrated on the Rumanian frontier. This was established by a reconnoitering flight of three Rumanian aeroplanes, which crossed the boundary and flew above Bulgarian territory.

Berlin, Feb. 17.—"No events of any importance have occurred on the west front since the last official statement," the German War Office announced today.

100,000 TURKS CAPTURED AT ERZERUM

Petrograd, via London, Feb 17.—The official Messenger estimates the Turkish garrison at Erzerum, capture of which was announced yesterday, as 100,000 men.

It is also estimated that more than 1,000 guns were captured.

It is said there were 467 guns in the outer forts, 374 in the central forts and 200 field guns at Erzerum.

In addition the Russians took vast quantities of military supplies which had been gathered at Erzerum for the Turkish soldiers operating in the Caucasus.

Attempts had been made to destroy these supplies, but the Russians attacked with such fierceness and moved so rapidly in their final attack that the Turks were unable to prevent the greater part of the stores falling into the hands of the victorious assailants.

TURKS FLED IN ROUT.

Part of the Ottoman army defending Erzerum succeeded in escaping, but fled in such utter rout that the Russians inflicted terrific losses upon the fugitive forces before they were rallied and strengthened by fresh forces that had marched from the west. The Turkish losses in the conflict that raged for five days about the forts guarding Erzerum are said to have been in the neighborhood of 25,000 killed and wounded.

MUNITIONS IN IRELAND SEIZED

British Government Stirred by Evidences of Disaffection; Sinn Fein Influences Are Blamed

By SYDNEY B. CAVE

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

London, Feb. 17.—Anxiety verging on alarm is being caused in government circles by the situation in Ireland. Not only is Ireland apathetic toward the war, but evidences of a seditious anti-government campaign have been unearthed.

With a freedom which is regarded as most unusual, the censor is allowing the publication of certain facts pertaining to deep political unrest in Ireland.

The anti-government campaign apparently has its headquarters in Dublin from which city the activities are being directed. The police have raided a number of houses and have suppressed at least ten newspapers within the past few weeks.

REGIMENTS BELOW QUOTA.

Enlistments in Ireland have fallen off to such an extent that the Times expresses the fear that the famous Irish regiments will have to be filled with men recruited in England and Scotland in a short time.

Already considerable drafts from English and Scottish regiments have been put into some of the Irish battalions. More than a hundred English cavalrymen are now serving in one of the most famous of the Irish regiments of the line. Another great Irish battalion, which has distinguished itself in past wars, is 300 men short of its full complement.

Although Ireland has a male population of 2,132,058, fewer than 50,000 men have enlisted since the outbreak of the war, and the tide of immigration to the United States became so great that the government had to stop it.

MUNITIONS SECRETED.

The following telegram was received from Dublin today:

"Members of the Sinn Fein organization have become so bold in the dissemination of their propaganda that it has been decided to adopt a stormier policy toward them. It is learned that, when the home of Countess Markievics in Dublin was raided recently, letters were found which led to the discovery of an arsenal. In Great Brunswick street, Dublin, the police searched a number of houses, securing a great supply of rifles, pistols and ammunition, as well as two machine guns which had been secreted in defiance of the Defence of the Realm act."

Jews Tell of Atrocities by the Russians

By HERMAN BERNSTEIN.

While England is silent about Russian atrocities, while France, [illegible] the Czar's palace, while the powerful nations are making of their sacrifices in behalf of the smaller and weaker nationalities, Russia is systematically and brutally resuming her persecution of the Jews, plotting to hound them and starving them, driving them from province to province, branding them with fiery sensations of disloyalty, treachery and espionage.

England and France are silent on this point. Naturally the governments of these countries dare not tell the truth about their ally, for what explanation could they give to their people for having entered this most terrible of slaughters in history in behalf of a government that is murdering its own people, and setting the stage for a wholesale massacre of the Jews at the close of the war? Such a massacre can be averted only by universal public denunciation and condemnation.

Russian agents in England and in France have been busy for many years buying organs of the press to influence public opinion in favor of Russian despotism and Russian tyranny. I had this information from no less an authority than Count Sergius Witte, the late Premier of Russia, Russia's foremost statesman, who was mysteriously removed shortly after the outbreak of this war.

RUSSIAN AGENTS ACTIVE.

Russian agents, Russian grafters, Russian loan-seekers, are swarming this country, endeavoring desperately but clumsily to influence the American press to disbelieve the accounts of anti-Jewish atrocities committed by Russia during this war. They urge a new commercial treaty with Russia, without settling the passport question. They are decrying the facts of Russia's inhumanity to the Jews by calling these charges false, by saying that the facts were "made in Germany."

I have been able to secure during my recent trip to Europe an authoritative Russian document, which is reproduced herewith. It is a calm statement of facts, presented by the Central Committee of the Constitutional Democratic Party, to which belong such distinguished Russian leaders as Paul Miukov, Maklakov, brother of the former Minister of the Interior, Rodichev, Vinaver and Prince Urusov.

The following are characteristic extracts from the report of the Constitutional Democratic Party, composed of the best and most devoted sons of the Russian people:

"The beginning of the war was marked by a great outburst of patriotic enthusiasm among the Jews all over the empire. Mobilization among the Jewish population was completed practically without arrears. The newspapers recorded striking numbers of Jewish volunteers. Among these were students of foreign universities, who, by the established government maximum for Jews, were deprived of the right to study in Russia.

This attitude on the part of the Jews to the war is reflected to the Jewish press. The organ of the Russian Jews, 'New Voskhod,' says in its issue of August 6, 1914, following the declaration of war:

"We were born and grew up in Russia, here rest the remains of our fathers. We Russian Jews are tied by unbreakable ties to Russia, and the memory of it is dearly cherished by our brethren who, by will of fate, have been driven across the ocean.

"In this historical moment, when our fatherland is threatened by foreign invasion, when brute force has armed itself against the great ideals of humanity, the Russian Jewry will manfully step forward to the battlefield and do its sacred duty."

JEWS SHOULDER WAR BURDEN.

The sentiments of Jewish society were summarized in the declaration read at the historic session of the Duma on August 8, 1914, by a member of our party, N. Freedman. The statement asserts that "in the great enthusiasm which has seized upon the nations and peoples of Russia the Jews are marching to the battlefield shoulder to shoulder with all the peoples of Russia."

Under the first impression of all these facts the reactionary elements and the reactionary press at first seemed to have shifted their bearings. There was manifested a strange and suspicious tendency to reforms. The Novoye Vremya spoke of unity and a desire to forget past injustice. But from the government came the hint that everything was to remain as of old.

It was indeed impossible not to see such a warning in the attitude of the government toward the domiciliary rights of the families of the Jewish reservists called to the colors; in the relegation into the Pale of Settlement of wounded Jewish soldiers; in the refusal of permission to the relatives of wounded soldiers located outside of the Pale to visit their wounded. It began to be asserted that the Jews were trading on their patriotism and for the immediate grant of equal rights.

Notwithstanding the absurdity of this theory, notwithstanding the fact in none of the Jewish declarations was there any mention of the demand for equal rights, this legend, in various forms, was repeated in the "patriotic" press until another, a much more dangerous weapon was found, the accusation of wholesale treachery. This second phase led directly to a third, the one still in being, governmental repression of the Jewish population.

SHIELD HIGH RUSSIANS.

A Russian writer has recently remarked that most of the slanderous accusations against the Jews, including, most fatal of all, the accusation of treason in Russia, originated in the region where Colonel Myasoyedoff was then active. Colonel Myasoyedoff was attached to the staff of the Russian armies in the north. He supplied information to the German armies, which was instrumental in the crushing defeat of the Russians by Von Hindenburg. He was found guilty and hanged.

The provocative policy of the secret service makes this observation of special weight. It is becoming clear in whose interests and for the achievement of what purposes it was deemed necessary to circulate in Russian society and throughout the ranks of the army, calumnies against that part of the population which so easily lent itself to suspicion.

This was done in order to have suspicion averted from those who were the real cause of German omniscience as to our military plans.

Poland was the chief theatre of our military operations, especially at the beginning of the war. But in Poland the relations between the Jewish and the Polish population have been extremely bitter for some time.

The economic boycott of Jewish trade, preached for the last several years, has awakened, among the different groups of the Polish population, and particularly among the small business men, gain-holic some race hatred and religious

NO WEAPON TOO MEAN.

In a struggle of such a nature, no weapon is considered too mean, and there was no necessity for special instructions from party leaders, neither did it require a special agitation by the public press. Both of these have, however, been brought into play and there, where the resentment which had gradually grown up as yet found expression in whispered calumnies against the Jews.

Such conditions brought about a natural hostility between the Jewish population and the incoming Russian troops, to many of whom this was, perhaps, the first sight of a people of such character.

Suspicion gave rise to violence, and the terror-stricken Jews naturally sought to hide or escape before the approach of armed men, who were in a hostile frame of mind, and who could not even understand the explanations of a frightened people. This, in turn, fomented distrust and created a prejudiced atmosphere ready to give credence to any absurdity whatsoever.

To this should be added, as a third cause, the very character of the military activities in Poland during the first few weeks of the war. In many localities, the Germans appeared before our forces had succeeded in reaching them. Our troops forcing out the Germans, came to these towns only after the inhabitants had been stripped of practically everything by the German military requisitions and plunderings.

SHOPS WERE PLUNDERED.

So the demand of our troops upon the Jews, the only shopkeepers in these localities, could not be satisfied. The shops were plundered and closed up. At the same time the Jews were accused of having voluntarily delivered their goods to the Germans and of hiding what was left from our troops.

Particularly characteristic are the cases where the Jews were accused of establishing telephones. These accusations have more than once caused the death penalty to be inflicted on the very poorest and most backward elements of the Jewish population, of the so-called attendants of the synagogues.

These accusations grew up in consequence of the ancient Jewish rite, unknown to the persecutors, which requires that the synagogues of small settlements have long wire or cord with which to encircle the Jewish population for the Sabbath. One such case was related by the member of the first Duma, Z. G. Frankel. He succeeded in saving a man who was led to trial and execution, and who, according to his accuser, had been caught "with the goods."

A further instalment of Mr. Bernstein's revelations of Russia's organized oppression of the Jews will appear soon in the Boston AMERICAN.

WAR SUMMARY

The Russian campaign in the Caucasus has resulted in the capture of Erzerum, a very important achievement.

In a general way, Erzerum was the cork in the neck of the bottle—with Asiatic Turkey as the bottle—and with Erzerum in Russian hands, the difficulties of a Turkish defense against the Russian invasion are greatly increased.

The next few days may be expected to determine what advantage Russia will take of her opportunity. She is now in a position of being able to choose her point of attack. Three principal possibilities are open to her:

1—She may drive southwestward toward Bagdad and a junction with the British troops there.

2—She may drive through the centre of Asiatic Turkey, striking halfway between Bagdad and Constantinople, cutting Asiatic Turkey in halves and making it possible for England to pour in from Egypt and from the Persian Gulf and cut down the fragmentary armies in the southeastern section of the country.

3—She may push due westward along the shores of the Black Sea, supporting her troops with her fleet and provisioning them from transports, and attempt the capture of Constantinople by land.

The first possibility offers advantages; the second project, if successful, would result in the practical destruction of Turkey; the third would bring, with success, not only the destruction of Turkey but the possession of Constantinople, highest aim of Russian ambitions.

Fighting in this area bids fair to become more important than that in any other war theatre, in the near future.

Austrians and Bulgarians have united in an attack on Durazzo. The Germans on the west front have in general maintained themselves in the trenches wrested from their enemies during the past two weeks, despite vigorous counter attacks. The German press is hinting at important naval operations soon to be expected.

The allied powers have reiterated their agreement not to make peace till Belgium is compensated for her part in the war, and restored to territorial integrity and independence.

Britain officially admits the value of the Zeppelin for scouting and other purposes, and A. J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty, told the Commons: "I am sorry we did not develop that type of air ship. Germany has an advantage in possessing them."

BOTH GERMANY AND THE U. S. SEEK ARMED SHIP PLEDGES marine warfare, but that she could not waive any rights to sink armed merchantmen, not of the liner class.

The position of the United States, it is understood, is that it requires a repledge in writing from Germany that liners shall be immune from unarmed attack, even though armed.

BOTH DEMAND PLEDGES.

The ambassador, it is understood, took the position that in order to give such a pledge it would be necessary for the United States to secure from the entente allies a pledge in return that under no circumstances would armed liners use their guns, except for defence.

The ambassador pointed out that British merchant vessels have attempted to ram and sink submarines, and that so long as the British regulations compiled by the admiralty remain in operation, German submarines are in danger if they try to exercise the right of stoppage and search on any vessel carrying a gun.

Neither the ambassador nor Secretary Lansing would make a statement.

The conference between the ambassador and the secretary has brought the entire submarine situation to a decidedly more serious phase. It is known that Teutonic representatives here do not believe that Germany can comply with the latest American request excepting on the condition that the United States secure from the allies positive pledges that their merchant vessels no longer will resist submarines.

Ambassador von Bernstorff expected to communicate at once the latest proposals to Berlin.

Meanwhile the United States will maintain a waiting attitude, and the Lusitania case remains unsettled.

U. S. SOUNDS BRITAIN.

Officials expressed the belief that the United States will endeavor to obtain the pledge desired by Germany from the allies that liners will not attempt to use their guns, except for defence.

Prior to his conference with Von Bernstorff, Secretary Lansing had a long talk with Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, British ambassador. It is believed he asked him what position Great Britain would take on this question. Sir Cecil is expected to communicate with his government at once on the matter.

Ambassador Gerard at Berlin and Ambassador Penfield at Vienna are forwarding by mail the complete texts of the decree by the Teutonic governments to treat armed merchantmen as auxiliary cruisers. These texts will carry with them citations in justifications for the changes of policy.

DOROTHY DIX PICTURES TRAGEDY OF THE BLIGHTED ROMANCE OF LAMBERT GIRL

DID the girl, this child of eighteen, really love with so consuming a devotion that life to her was worthless without her adored one, and when she realized that he was lost to her forever, did she deliberately end an existence that had no further joy for her? We mock at "calf love" and laugh at salad day romances, but after all youth is the time of cyclonic emotions, when we are torn between mad happiness and madder despair, and that is why the young oftener take their own lives than do the old. It takes age to teach us the law of compensation and give us the strength of endurance. So it is pathetically true that this child, just because she was so young and had the short vision of her years, may possibly have killed herself in a fit of jealousy over a love affair that she would have smiled over as a bread and butter romance ten years hence.

—From Dorothy Dix's article on the Lambert case.

'MYSTERY IN OUIJ DRAMA'

tion of such and cases that it was the first thought that leaped into the minds of the police, and their surmise was confirmed by the boy.

Now, however, an autopsy proves this theory to have been absolutely false. So it appears that she was either the victim of her own morbid fears—slain by her guilty conscience—or else this little unsophisticated schoolgirl did an almost incredible thing. She used the club used only by the most depraved and callous of women to try to force the man she wanted into marrying her.

The case, as the old familiar one of love betrayed and consequent despair, or of love grown cold and weary, and freeing itself at any cost, was simple enough, but this new phase adds a baffling mystery to it that needs some great psychologist of the feminine heart to solve.

You have to begin with these undisputed facts:

PRUSSIC ACID FATAL.

That William Orpet and Marian Frances Lambert were lovers during the past Summer and met often in the woods on the outer edge of Lake Forest.

That the girl told Orpet that she was in trouble; that she wrote him many letters after he went to school at Madison repeating this and imploring him to come to her help, and that he did come at last, believing her assertion to be true.

That these stories were all falsehoods.

That the girl is dead, killed by prussic acid.

That both the girl's father and the boy's father are superintendents of the estates of very rich men at Lake Forest, and that the fathers had in their possession large quantities of prussic acid that they used to spray to kill insects on plants and trees, and that in consequence of this it was equally possible for Marian Lambert and William Orpet to have obtained the deadly drug.

BOTTLE IS MISSING.

That a druggist at Madison, Wis., where young Orpet went to school, claims to have sold him an empty two-ounce bottle on the day before Marian Lambert was killed, and that no bottle or container of medicine was found anywhere near her, and no swift in the action of that particular poison, that she would not have had the strength to have flung the vessel containing the deadly draught away from her. It would have dropped to her feet from her nerveless hand.

It seems also certain that no matter what happened at the last minute of the fatal interview between Marian Lambert and William Orpet, that she did not undeceives him as to her condition, and that believing the worst, and in spite of her tears, and prayers, and entreaties not to leave her, with the hardness and brutality, and selfishness of youth, that he told her finally and flatly that he was done with her, and that he was in love with another girl, and was going to marry this other one.

RIDDLE IS UNSOLVED.

This, then, is the unsolved riddle: When little Marian Lambert realized that out there in the bleak Winter woods she had played her last card, and lost, what happened? Murder, or suicide?

Did the boy, believing that disgrace stared him in the face, and that his college career would be cut short, and utterly worn out with the importunities of a girl that he had come to hate after his little flicker of passion for her had died out, think to rid himself of her forever by forcing a few grains of a deadly poison between her lips? Or, did he beguile her into taking the poison by means of a bogus death pact?

Or, did the girl, this child of eighteen, really love with so consuming a devotion that life to her was worthless without her adored one, and when she realized that he was lost to her forever, did she deliberately end an existence that had no further joy for her?

We mock at "calf love" and laugh at salad day romances, but after all youth is the time of cyclonic emotions, when we are torn between mad happiness and madder despair, and that is why the young oftener take their own lives than do the old. It takes age to teach us the law of compensation and give us the strength of endurance.

It is pathetically true that this child, just because she was so young and had the short vision of her years, may possibly have killed herself in a fit of jealousy over a love affair that she would have smiled over as a bread and butter romance ten years hence.

EXPLAIN MENTAL TWISTS.

But how explain the mental twists of a schoolgirl, who was capable of forming and executing the daring plan of exploiting her own shame in order to hold a lover upon whom her grasp had always been of the loosest, and whom she was losing from her side? The girl who could do that was wrinkled and aged in soul, no matter how young and fresh her face may have been.

To marry the girl he has wronged, to give a name to a child that would else be nameless, that has always been the last appeal to what was fine in a man, the final test of his honor, the last flick of the whip to rouse up his sluggish manhood. It has been an appeal that has been so sacred that even debased women have respected it. Only the lowest of them have made this appeal falsely.

A MONSTROUS THOUGHT.

So it seems a monstrous thing that this little young girl should have claimed approaching motherhood when it was not true to try to force a man to marry her who did not want her, and who claims that he had never even asked her to marry him. One likes to believe that this girl was too young and too ignorant to understand the import of what she did—that she was a child playing with edged tools, or the infant frolic who is too innocent to comprehend the meaning of the words he utters.

For myself, I wonder what books little Marian Lambert fed on, what moving pictures she went to see. Somehow, her whole story to me smacks of the undeveloped mind, full fed on erotic novels, and thrillers until it becomes a regular forcing house for neurotic passion.

I wonder if her very soul wasn't saturated with novels that exploit the joy of uncontrolled emotions. I wonder how many stories she read that might that taught that love is the only thing in life for women. I wonder how many hundred times she saw on screens the betrayed heroine appealing to her lover to marry her, for the sake of the life that was to be, and to save her honor.

I wonder how many times her poor little silly heart thrilled to the dramatic death of the heroine, who, when forsaken, takes poison and perishes to slow music and sobending of Marian Lambert's life was shaped by these influences.

Do you ever wonder what the novels she reads and the plays and moving pictures she sees are doing for your daughter, you mothers and fathers, who are reading the pitiful story of this little dead girl in Illinois?

'MOTHERS ARE AT FAULT'

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

When we read of a tragedy resulting from unrequited love on the part of a young girl, we invariably feel sympathy for her, and indignation or contempt for the man in the case.

We leap to the quick conclusion that the man has been the pursuer of innocence and that the girl has erred only in too great trust and confidence.

But seemingly with the advent of the telephone, the young girl developed an astonishing tendency toward pursuit of the young man.

Two college boys of the writer's acquaintance were sent away to travel for a year, in order to protect them from the attentions of young girls who continually called them on the telephone, suggesting social diversions which interfered with their studies.

Still another high school boy was captured and led into a secret marriage by a girl of his own age.

INSISTED ON MARRIAGE.

Another pursued a sophomore until she had compromised her name. Then her parents insisted upon marriage: a marriage which was followed by a divorce in a short time: and there was pity and sympathy for the deserted wife and condemnation for the faithless husband.

Yet it was an absolute case of seduction on the part of a foolish, romantic, bold and indiscreet girl, and a weak, ardent boy. He had never thought of going more than paying this young girl the simple attentions of a partner at the dance, in the company of other young people. It was the girl's plan to secure his attention for herself exclusively. It was she who made arrangements for tete-a-tete visits, and if we see who kept the telephone busy calling him to her side when he should have been at his studies.

Like most blind, foolish American parents, the girl's father and mother allowed their daughter to dispose of her own time as she willed, and allowed her to receive calls from young men and to go unchaperoned; believing that because she was their daughter she must be prudent and sensible.

GLAMOUR HIDES INNOCENCE.

They had never talked to this girl on the subject of sex attraction and its high and holy purposes, and of its alluring dangers. They believed such conversation with a young daughter would spoil her innocence.

This stupid idea of the stupidest people in our civilization is led to many a girl's downfall. It is the duty of parents to plan pleasures for their children and especially for the girl and boy developing into adolescence. The father and mother who forget that they were ever young and who expect their children to settle down to the habits of middle age in their teens, are enemies to their own offspring.

It is as impossible for the expanding nature of youth to be satisfied with uneventful days as for steam to remain peaceful in a closed vessel. It must escape somehow, someway. If not by natural egress, then it produces an explosion. It was the inconsiderate parent who caused repulsion to be invented. But between the inconsiderate parent and the too liberal parent, who crowd earth's highways, there is a beautiful middle course whereon few fathers or mothers walk.

WHAT WISE MOTHERS DO.

The really good and wise mother will take her little daughter by the time she is ten years old and talk to her of the charms of modesty and of the necessity of direction in her association with the opposite sex. She will instill into the mind of the young girl the incontrovertible fact that boys do not respect a girl who seeks their society or who suggests any pleasures or diversions which necessitate undue social attentions.

It is the nature of the man from boyhood to maturity to want to be the suggester and the planner in these matters. However flattered he may seem to be by the solicited attentions of a young girl, he nevertheless loses a certain amount of respect for her.

Every mother should talk this to her young daughter until it is fully impressed upon the expanding young mind. She should be so sympathetic, so considerate, so thoughtful of the happiness and pleasure of her daughter that it would be impossible for the girl to hide anything from her mother.

Love, which has to hide itself in secret corners at first, finally flaunts itself from every printed page of the daily papers. A love affair which is nobody's business unusually becomes everybody's business eventually. Love which must shrink from the light of day is never productive of happiness.

The moment a man of any age suggests any action to a young girl which she could not confide to her mother, that moment the man becomes her mortal enemy. This old and important truth has failed to be understood by most of our American girls. It is the fault of the mothers that it has not been understood. It is the fault of the mothers that so many young girls of the present day are bold, indiscreet and aggressive pursuers of young men.

What are you doing to protect your daughter....

Sees Moral for Girls in Lambert Tragedy.

By THE REV. EMMA C. POORE, Of the New Thought Church.

The case of Marian Lambert will repeat itself.

This is not the end of such events. They can be prevented and it lies with the girl herself. Young women should think more of what they may become and what they can become, if they will let outside influences lead them less.

In every young woman there is the influence from within. No matter how great she may be, this influence can manifest itself.

There is a divine principle in every woman born with her. It can control all during life. It can face all those temptations and keep her free from them. It can make a young woman come to herself when upon the verge of doing what she afterwards will regret.

It is the divine principle within. You can't go wrong when you are feeling its workings and caring for its guidance.

Don't give way to what appeals to you from the outside. Don't imagine love is against this divine principle. Young women often mistake more passion for love.

Love of the highest is measured by this divine principle.

I have talked with so many young women about this very matter. They allow a young man to influence them to the extent that they lose sight entirely of their own will.

They never appeal to this divinity in every one of us, who, as a guardian angel, watches over our destiny as well as our temptation.

She was just eighteen, you say, this young woman. What did she know about the divine principle within her?

Did she ever look within for what was sweet, noble, true, lovely, and of good report? Did she think of the greatest thing in her life; her soul. Did she ever have any one say anything to her about what that meant?

We do not know ourselves thoroughly. We know that we are better in our hearts than our deeds would reveal us to be.

Had some one only taken this girl aside and just told her of what there was to rule her life—not the sentimentalism of a mere love which moonlight and silvery water streams may inspire, but the hear-by words of a human voice giving vent to dear expressions of devotion, which a mere change of face may disturb, and did in this particular case.

WARNED.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

THEY stood at the garden gate
By the lifting of a lid
She might have read her fate
In a little thing he did.

HE plucked a beautiful flower,
Tore it away from its place,
On the side of the blooming bower,
And held it against his face;

DRANK in its beauty and bloom
In the midst of his idle talk;
Then cast it down to the gloom
And dust of the garden walk.

AY, trod it under his foot
As it lay in his pathway there,
Then spurned it away with his boot
Because it had ceased to be fair.

AH! the maiden might have read
The doom of her young life then,
But she looked in his eyes instead
And thought him the king of men.

SHE looked in his eyes and blushed,
She hid in his strong arms' fold;
And the tale of the flower, crushed
And spurned, was once more told.

FEAR CAUSED THE TRAGEDY, SAYS PRINCESS TROUBETZKOY

Fear caused the death of Marian Lambert in Helm's woods.

Fear led her to take poison —fear of the opinions of the world.

Fear impelled young William H. Orpet to bring to the girl the poison that killed her.

Society as a whole is responsible for the existence of that fear.

This indictment of the social fabric, of all the men and women who do not sin in such fashion along with the guilty, came today from the Princess Troubetzkoy. As Amelia Rives, a beautiful Virginia girl, she shocked and held the public with her remarkable "The Quick or the Dead." From that maiden triumph to the "Fear Market," she has been an analyst of human emotions.

The Princess dissects hearts much as a surgeon would a body. She is peculiarly fitted to think and to talk about such a case as the finding of the body of young Marian Lambert, half covered with snow, in the fringe of wood where a last love tryst had been held with the man to whom she pinned her faith and her life's best gift.

The pretty Princess took the picture of young Orpet. She was gowned in that fetching manner that is almost her exclusive right. She looked intently at the boyish face of the young Wisconsin junior.

THE FINAL OLD STORY.

"It is the old, old story," she said, with the air of a doctor who had found a familiar symptom.

"The woman did tempt me and I did eat," it is ever the woman who is to blame.

"It is the story of a girl's trust and of her fear of the consequences.

"The point of view of society is entirely wrong, particularly in such a case as this. The public must adjust itself to a proper viewpoint."

The Princess held the boy's picture before her again. She gave it a searching examination.

"It certainly isn't the face of a criminal," she said. "Nor is it the face of a degenerate."

"Yet it is cold and calculating. The whole thing must have been cold and calculating."

"The whole policy of society is wrong. It makes the girl fear the consequences of such a condition. If, under a more sane system, a girl in such a plight were permitted to bring her child into the world, who knows that a genius will not? Even in the days of chivalry and heraldry, the bar sinister became necessary. It marked men of might, virile and valiant knights, who under conditions like this Chicago case would have died in a snowy wood before the first dawn ever came.

"But this [illegible] is come to us often. [illegible] was have had similar cases. We have had cases of a young woman's trust and of her fall. What less or a worse case of fear might not reason have we learned from these cases? None. The girl still has no sympathetic, intelligent place to go to in such a plight. We have done nothing for this vital question.

PREFERRED TO TAKE POISON.

"This girl preferred to take poison and die rather than face the self-conscious people who make up the world.

"The lesson to be learned from this girl's death is the need for a broader and better society—a society that will take a broader and better view of girls in such a condition. If this girl had not been afraid to tell someone she could trust, this thing would never have happened.

"Emphasis must be laid upon the fact that, no matter what sin this girl committed, no matter what sin this boy committed, the greatest sin is the sin committed by society for having allowed such conditions. Society is to blame that this girl preferred to face the grave rather than society.

"And it was fear that made the boy give the crystals to the girl, assuming that he did. I am not seeking to pass judgment upon his case in advance of the legal evidence. It was fear of the discovery of his relations with the girl—that dark fear that haunts men and drives them into crime.

"It is a striking lesson for mothers and for fathers—particularly for fathers—that, no matter how serious the trouble, their boys and their girls should be encouraged to come to them and freely tell them all of such things.

"People have a way of talking of the Creator and the wonderful mysteries of the Creation, and still they think it wrong to drop the veil from the greatest of these mysteries and let children know necessary facts.

FIND GIRL FOUGHT TO LIVE

search along the Chicago & Northwestern tracks from here to Madison.

The newest and weightiest discovery is the fact that crystals of supposed poison were found under the nails of the dead girl's right hand—the hand with which her school books were held when her body was found. It was the right hand, too, that was burned with acid, and it must have been with the right hand that Marian fought against the poison, thus getting the acid on her left cheek.

The big significance of this, the prosecution will contend, is that Marian Lambert did not die with her school books in her hand, but after her death her body was posed by her slayer.

In Orpet's alleged confession he said he watched her die and then went away.

That was one heavy blow against the defence. Others have followed in swift sequence.

In addition to all this, it was learned that Miss Josephine Davis, who is expected to be a star witness for the State, has not disappeared after all, but is merely sequested in a place where the State's Attorney can find her and where nobody else can.

What Miss Davis has told the prosecutor, the defence does not know. But Miss Davis was Miss Lambert's confidant and was the last mortal, excepting Orpet, to speak with Miss Lambert before she died.

State's Attorney Dady is so completely satisfied with the State's case that he has turned the jolly over to his assistants and is giving his attention to other cases.

It is announced that the prosecution is now ready for trial.

The two-ounce empty bottle that Orpet is alleged to have bought in Madison just before starting for Lake Forest is still regarded as the key to the case. Detective Beardsley has begun the task of tracing every footstep of Orpet from the moment of Miss Lambert's death to Orpet's arrest, hoping to find the bottle or learn what become of it.

TELEPHONED TO MARIAN.

"I have traced Orpet's movements," said Beardsley, "from Madison to Highland Park. At the Ferndale Store I verified the fact, already reported, that Orpet asked for an empty capsule of ordinary size and for here he bought the empty bottle. He took the bottle only because he could not get a big enough capsule.

"At 1:05 that afternoon Orpet left Madison on a Northwestern train. He got off at West Allis, near Milwaukee, and waited there twenty minutes for a train to Highland Park.

"At 8:25 he telephoned to Marian Lambert from Highland Park. The record of the call has been found but I have not been able to find a telephone operator who overheard the conversation."

Assistant State's Attorney E. R. Runyard is now in charge of the Orpet case. He has obtained statements from Frances Harder and Alma Paulson, school chums of the dead girl. The nature of these statements, however, has not been disclosed.

In response to the direct question whether Orpet would be put on the stand to testify in his own behalf, James J. Wilkerson, his chief of counsel, said today:

"Probably not."

This fact is taken to indicate that the defence bases its greatest hope on weak points in the prosecution's case, that Orpet will be believed to be in the "benefit of the doubt."

WILL ADMIT LETTERS.

It will be admitted that Orpet wrote letters to Miss Lambert and these letters show his intimacy with her. But beyond that, the defence will probably rest on its case, forcing the State to prove a direct connection between Orpet and the girl's death.

The State will be able to show that poison was buried on the McCormick estate, where Orpet could have had access to it. The State will show that Orpet bought medicine and that he bought an empty two-ounce bottle in Madison just before he kept his last tryst with Miss Lambert.

It will be shown, too, that Orpet arranged an elaborate but false alibi.

And yet, with all these things shown, the defence will enter a plea of not guilty and challenge the State to show that Orpet, either by force or trickery, caused Miss Lambert to swallow the poison.

Brandeis Is Praised by Whipple and Denounced by Storey

ing the ideals to which he has devoted his present years."

SCORED BY STOREY.

This estimate of Mr. Brandeis was in contrast with that of Mr. Moorfield Storey, who said:

"He is regarded, I believe, as an able lawyer, a ruthless advocate of somewhat unscrupulous views, and a man who in some matters is not to be trusted."

Sherman Whipple was questioned as to the "Warren Will Case," which has figured largely in the accusations against Mr. Brandeis. He said:

"I do not agree with Mr. Bailey that Mr. Brandeis framed the bill that Warren might make an undue profit. He might have been careless in not making perfectly clear to all the heirs the entire transaction over which the family was in entire accord, but there was no moral wrong, no motive for securing personal advantage."

Questioned further on this point, he said:

"I am convinced that the course followed on the advice of Mr. Brandeis involved a breach of trust."

Mr. Whipple turned to the Lennox case. He had given interview in 1907 with James P. Lennox and a Mr. Silcock of New York.

"As a result of that interview I went to Mr. Brandeis," said Mr. Whipple, "and told him that Mr. Lennox had informed me that two months previously he had engaged Mr. Brandeis as counsel, as his firm was getting into financial difficulties.

"I told Brandeis that Mr. Lennox had said that he, Mr. Brandeis, after considering the fact that he had other clients who might be interested in the matter, had finally decided he could not act for the Lennox people.

ARGUED WITH BRANDEIS.

"I said to Mr. Brandeis that it was said that he advised the appointment of P. Lennox & Co. the assignment to be to Mr. Nutter, Mr. Brandeis's partner, that Mr. Nutter did take all the property, and that Brandeis now claimed that he was no longer counsel for the Lennoxes.

"Mr. Brandeis said that was the situation. I replied that I considered that a serious matter. Whereupon Mr. Brandeis said, 'When a lawyer becomes bankrupt he is trustee for his creditors, has no individual interest in his estate, and finds himself with a trust imposed upon himself by law to see that all his property is distributed fairly. Such was Mr. Lennox's situation when he came to me. I did not intend to act personally for him, nor did I agree to.'

"Yes, I replied, but you advised him to make the assignment. You certainly were acting as his counsel then.'

According to Mr. Whipple, Mr. Brandeis said: "No, I was counsel for the situation."

"I suggested to Mr. Brandeis that, according to his view, when a man made an assignment at suggestion of his counsel, the latter was no longer his lawyer.

"Mr. Brandeis said that was a very unlimited statement, and that it implied his motives, which were simply to have an equitable distribution of the property among creditors.

SPOKE OF FEES.

"I told Mr. Brandeis that it was said that the reason he had resigned as counsel for Lennox was that only a very moderate fee would be forthcoming, as the latter was, while assisting with the assignee a large fee was likely.

"Mr. Brandeis again asserted that I impugned his motives, but that if I really thought he was influenced by any such mercenary considerations I should have to continue my belief, and that was all there was to it.

"I said that if Brandeis promised to act as attorney for Lennox he should not be antagonizing him. I told him that whether he did or did not so promise, that was the understanding of Lennox, and that I considered his situation most embarrassing."

Moorfield Storey in his testimony charged that the New York & New England Railroad was "wrecked" through the activities of Mr. Brandeis.

Storey declared that it was due to Brandeis that the New Haven was enabled to gain control of the New York & New England. Storey appeared before the sub-committee to discuss the charge made several days ago by C. W. Barron of the Boston News Bureau and Wall Street Journal, that Brandeis was "hired by the New Haven road to wreck the New England line." When Senator Walsh asked him as to this charge he said: "I believe this is true."

The witness, a gray-haired, shrewd New England lawyer, then proceeded in rapid fashion to tell his story. The committee and the big crowd of spectators listened eagerly as he reviewed the situation.

He said that in 1892 the New Haven began a campaign of extermination against the New England road, its most powerful competitor.

"The New England line," he said, "went to New York partially over the rails of the New Haven. When the campaign began the New England found its freight held up and its business generally interfered with over the New Haven lines. There was every indication that the New Haven proposed to ruin the New England.

"Ten suits directed against the New holder in the New England line and a Boston liquor dealer. The suits were clearly framed and brought to wreck the credit of the New England road. The suits proposed to interfere with dividends, prevent the issue of bonds, and to invalidate leases of certain branch lines held by the New England."

Mr. Storey added: "In the Spring of '93, first at the instance of certain banks of Providence, the Massachusetts Legislature appointed a committee to consider the relations between the two roads. I counselled the bearing. Mr. Brandeis testified that he was the main counsel in those suits and that all other counsel were under his direction.

CREDIT LET UP OPP.

"The result of the suits was that the credit of the New England road and its earnings were cut off, and in the Fall of 1893 a receiver was appointed, from which it emerged as a part of the New Haven.

"At the investigation I undertook to find out whom Mr. Brandeis really represented. He testified that Goldsmith was his client. I asked him who paid the bills, whereupon he declined to answer. He began by saying that while he was willing to give the information to the committee, he would it agreed upon that this testimony would not be used in other suits. We said we could not agree.

"It turned out that Mr. Goldsmith was the owner of 60 shares of New England stock worth about $3,000, and by no means in a position to incur the expense of six months' employment of counsel in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut and the bringing of ten suits. Suits were brought in the name of Goldsmith and such other stockholders as saw fit to join.

"Apparently before bringing the suits they went over the list of stockholders and finally decided to use the name of Goldsmith as plaintiff. They apparently promised him a considerable sum of money for the use of his name.

NEW HAVEN ENTERED.

"A New York lawyer, William J. Kelly, was apparently behind the suits. In the Fall of 1892, Kelly apparently lost interest in the suits, and Messrs. Olling, Webb and Moorehouse, appealed directly to the New Haven road. From this time the suits were in the name of the New Haven.

"It is apparent that the suits were not in good faith but for the purpose of injuring the New England road. It was clear that Goldsmith and Kelly were not Mr. Brandeis' clients, that he never regarded them as such, and that he took directions from somebody outside.

"This outside person may have been Austin Corbin of New York, then president of the Long Island Railroad, or it may have been the New Haven road, but in any event, it was somebody who was not the party in whose interest the suits were ostensibly brought. That party either was interested in the New England road, or he was not. If he was, there was no earthly reason why his name should not be used in these suits. If not interested, it was clear that some outside person, for a reason which, not disclosed, was working to injure the New England road, was working effectively, and the result was the receivership."

"How long have you been a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association?" asked Senator Walsh.

"Since 1869," replied the lawyer.

GIVES BOSTON NAMES.

Senator Walsh questioned the witness in detail as to the Boston lawyers and business men who signed protests sent to the Senate against the confirmation of Brandeis.

Storey named President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, Charles Francis Adams and numerous other Boston men.

"Isn't it fact that the young men of the legal community generally favor Mr. Brandeis and the older men are against him?" asked Senator Walsh.

"I believe the young men who do not know him are with him," said the witness, "and those who do know him are opposed to him."

Voluminous excerpts from the records of the suits against the New England road and of investigations of the New Haven and the New England companies were placed before the committee by Storey.

Members of the committee questioned Mr. Storey as to the Warren will case. He said he appeared as counsel for one of the Warren heirs. "If I had been in Mr. Brandeis place, I probably would have done just as he did," said the witness.

Attorney G. W. Anderson, Boston Federal district attorney, questioned Storey at length as to the various social and educational activities of Brandeis.

England road were brought in the Spring of 1892.

"Mr. Brandeis appeared to prosecute these suits. The suits were filed in Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

"All efforts to disclose the real clients of Mr. Brandeis met with resistance. He was ostensibly employed by N. F. Goldsmith, a small stock-

NEW BUDGE TPLAN NOW IN OPERATION

The segregated budget is already in operation in all city departments, though it will not be submitted to the City Council for nearly two weeks.

The new system has been in effect since the beginning of the fiscal year, February 1, and was applied to all bills and payrolls put through on that date.

The "elephantine" budget with its thousands of items is being worked over for presentation to the Council soon after the Mayor's return from New Orleans and Cuba.

GIRLS HURT WHEN CAR HITS SLEIGH

A sleigh carrying twenty-six young society people of Brookline on their way to the Belmont Springs Country Club to attend a dance was struck by a trolley car in Watertown and several young women were slightly injured. Walter B. Leach of No. 20 Naples street, who gave the party, continued with his guests to the club and not until the close of festivities did he admit that his shoulder had been severely injured.

PANAMA MARU IN PORT, SAYS CABLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—The marine department of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce today was advised that the Japanese liner Panama Maru arrived in Yokohoma on February 15. No mention was made of a fire on board, as told in Yokohoma dispatches earlier today. Her cargo from Sanfrancisco was worth $1,000,000.

BIG SNOW BRIGADE CLEANING STREETS

At the Public Works Department it was said that 400 paving division men were at work today clearing crossings and gutters. It was said that the entire street cleaning and sanitary division force of employes was at work cleaning the snow from the streets, and that engaged in the same work were 201 men and 111 teams of contractors.

SORE THROAT

A DANGER SIGNAL—A FEW SEASONABLE "DON'T" TO PREVENT COLDS, COUGHS, GRIP AND PNEUMONIA, KEEP INFECTIOUS GERMS FROM THE SYSTEM

Most infectious germs of disease enter the body by way of the throat and most of the Catarrh, Bronchitis, Grippe, Pneumonias, in fact, form, to slowly melt in the mouth a few drops each day. These Tablets are a physician's prescription, are powerful but pleasant to taste and their germ killing juices find their way to every nook and cranny of the membranes where the germs are likely to lodge. They not only clear the throat and air passages of dangerous germ life, but act as an almost positive preventive of Grippe, Pneumonia and other serious throat and lung affections and often will stop a bad cough and break up a cold over night. A package of Ozkan is the best possible safeguard against Bad Colds this winter and two or three of the tablets should be carried about all the time. Many leading druggists sell them, about 24 tablets to the package, on a positive guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Be sure to insist on Ozkan, and take nothing else.—Advertisement.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed with Sulphur It Brings Back Its Lustre and Abundance.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Advertisement.

In Ye Olden Times

the housewives of New England set the standard in bread baking. To the strength-building qualities of this staple food of the ages they added a new delightfulness of taste.

Today, there is no better bread than that of New England, and her people should eat more of it. Cut down the quantity of meat and other heavy foods—increase the portion of bread. Better health, keener brains and lowered cost of living will result.

Eat bread made with

and you will be certain that you eat the best bread—bread that is light, tasty, pure and easy to digest—because Fleischmann's Yeast is recognized by good bakers everywhere as the one perfect leaven.

SWEETHEART OF COMERY TRIED TO SEE DOOMED MAN AT PRISON

Concord, N. H., Feb. 17.—Eunice Campbell, the Manchester school girl on whose account Oscar J. Comery poisoned his wife, came to the State Prison here, according to report which spread over the city today, but was refused permission to pay a farewell visit to Comery, who is to be hanged shortly after midnight tonight. The girl cried when she was turned away.

The prison officials refuse to discuss this report one way or another but a conductor on the Manchester-Concord trolley line is quoted as saying that Eunice Campbell came down from Manchester by trolley last Monday to see Comery.

The girl, according to the statement credited to this conductor, returned later in the day to Manchester by trolley, weeping bitterly because she had been denied her wish at the prison door.

"VICTIM OF CIRCUMSTANCES."

Representative Levin J. Chase of this city, who is a leader in the opposition to capital punishment in this State, said today:

"I regard the whole system of capital punishment as bad. Comery is a victim of circumstances in this way. The jury which condemned him was finally secured after each man, on cross-examination, stated he believed in capital punishment. Comery was convicted by a jury that had gone on record as favoring capital punishment. Comery had confessed his crime on the theory that he would be sent to prison for life, but the jury determined that he should die.

"Comery was unfortunate in another respect. He had a case of a person in front of him who got life imprisonment for first degree murder. There was a similar case behind him. This proves capital punishment is inconsistent, as it does not act alike in all cases."

The Comery hanging will be witnessed by more than a dozen persons, including reporters. It will be the first hanging in New Hampshire since that of Frank C. Almy, twenty-three years ago.

Comery will be taken from his cell shortly after the supper hour and held in another room while prison officials set up the scaffolding in the south wing. It is there the hanging will take place.

DEATH HOUR STILL SECRET.

The exact hour for the hanging has as yet not been made known. It is understood, however, that it will be shortly after the stroke of the midnight hour. Officials of the institution are loath to discuss the hanging and refer all callers to Sheriff Stearns.

Comery's counsel visited him today, Rev. Thomas M. O'Leary, chaplain of the prison, who has been Comery's spiritual adviser since he announced the faith of his parents at the earnest solicitation of his devoted sister, Mrs. Mary St. Cyr, last week.

The Rev. Fr. O'Leary will later administer the last rites of the Catholic church to Comery and, still later, escort him to the scaffold. Comery will wear a black cap, through which the hangman's noose will be placed.

The nerve of the man who will spring the trap and thus send Comery into eternity is being kept a secret by Sheriff Stearns.

SISTER PAYS LAST VISIT.

After the hanging Comery's body will be examined by several doctors. When they pronounce him dead attaches of the jail will remove the body.

Mrs. St. Cyr, sister of Comery, has made application for the body and her request will be granted. She will arrange for her brother's burial.

Mrs. St. Cyr has visited her brother for the last time. The greeting between the two was injured by tears. Both broke down and wept, and stout-hearted jail officials, overcome by the sight, fell their own eyes fill with tears. The leave-taking was equally heart-rending.

"Oscar never killed his wife," Mrs. St. Cyr later said to an AMERICAN reporter. "He only placed poison in her stomach by the chemists was from the embalming fluid with which her body was treated after death. Oscar will die an innocent man."

Comery goes to the gallow convicted for one of the most atrocious murders in the annals of the State.

His wife, who died in St. Jean's Church, was taken suddenly ill one night and died. The funeral was held November 29, 1914. Suspicion, latent in making the arrangements aroused the suspicions of the undertaker. The facts, Comery finally confessed to the clergyman that he was responsible for the school girl's condition and that he had decided to kill his wife and marry the younger woman.

The body of Mrs. Comery was exhumed, and in the stomach was found enough strychnine to have killed a dozen men.

$4,000 VERDICT FOR 6-YEAR-OLD BOY

Norman Smith of Waltham, six years old, was awarded a verdict of $4,000 today against the Middlesex & Boston Street Railway Company. The child was struck by a trolley car in Waltham in 1913. This is the fourth time the case has been tried. The first verdict was for $1,000, which was set aside by the judge. A second verdict for $5,500 met a like fate. At the third trial the jury disagreed.

McGREGOR LEAVES HOUGHTON & DUTTON

Alexander McGregor, former member of the Governor's Council and for several years a prominent figure in politics, has resigned the treasurership of the Houghton & Dutton Company, to engage in other lines. He leaves in a few days for the South and when he returns an announcement of his plans will be made.

MANY INJURED IN WRECK OF FLYER

Richmond, Va., Feb. 17.—The Northbound Florida special on the Seaboard Air Line was wrecked today at Bellwood Plantation, near Chester, Va. Railroad officials here were advised that a car with available nurse and physician and a special train was made up. A telephone report said many persons were injured.

TOM LONGBOAT NOW CANADIAN SCOUT

Brantford, Ont., Feb. 17.—Tom Longboat, the famous Indian runner, came to Brantford and enlisted with the scout section of the 125th Battalion. He returned to his home at Caledonia, and will report for duty in a few days. Longboat said he realized the time had come for married men to enlist as well as single men.

DANDRUFF GOES! HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments. Try this!

Hair stops coming out and every particle of dandruff disappears.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few such applications. When you see how hair, fine and downy at first—yes, but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle or scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, revitalizing and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.—Advertisement.

SCALE COVERED DAUGHTER'S FACE

And Head. Thought She Would Lose Eyesight. Itched Continually. Disfigured Terribly.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"When my daughter was four weeks old, she had a dreadful scale which covered her face and head, and we thought for a time she would lose her eyesight. At first the skin was inflamed, and it itched continually and she could not sleep day or night. At last little red pimples with festered heads appeared and where the pimple had been there would appear a horrid scale. It disfigured her terribly.

"Then I bought a would try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After the third application we could see a marked improvement, and in a short time she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Geo. Paddock, New Canaan, Conn., July 24, 1913.

To Free Your Skin of Hair or Fuzz

(Boudoir Secrets)

No toilet table is complete without a small package of delatone, for with it hair or fuzz can be quickly banished from the skin. To remove hairs you merely mix into a paste enough of the powder and water to cover the objectionable hairs. This should be left on the skin about 2 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when it will be found free from hair and blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone.—Advertisement.

WILSON WARMS TO KAISER, SAYS CLEMENCEAU

By C. F. BERTELLI.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Feb. 17.—That Colonel Edward M. House's visit to Berlin had a marked effect upon President Wilson's attitude toward Germany is the assertion made by George Clemenceau, former Premier of France, in an article, which he publishes in his newspaper today.

"It is most significant," says the ex-Premier, "that previous to the completion of Colonel House's mission, President Wilson was disposed to be adamantine in his demand for a Lusitania disavowal, but no sooner was Colonel House's report in his hands than he fell on Count von Bernstorff's neck."

Explaining House's mission to Paris, Clemenceau says:

"A friend of the Colonel confided to me that House was charged to try out the allies on the subject of Wilsonian peace mediation. I am in a position to state authoritatively that the presidential envoy had not long to wait for a negative reply."

DENY OFFERS OF PEACE TO BELGIUM

By International News Service.

London, Feb. 17.—Recent detailed reports that Germany had made peace overtures to Belgium, offering to restore Belgian independence, were definitely denied today in the House of Commons by Sir Edward Grey, the British Foreign Minister. At the same time Sir Edward said that Belgium had been pressed by the English government to reject any peace overtures that Germany might make.

LOOKING BACKWARD 60 YEARS

An Interesting Bit of History Everybody Should Know

One of the interesting places in Lowell, Mass., is the old apothecary shop on Merrimack street, established in 1827. This location is still a drug store, although of course modernized in many departments. The old prescription books, however, have been preserved and form an interesting record covering nearly a century.

Perhaps one of the most interesting books is that of the year 1855. On one of the pages of this book, that dated June 9th, 1855, is written the original prescription for Father John's Medicine. This prescription was compounded for the Reverend Father John O'Brien at the old drug store on that date, and was so successful in treating Father John's illness, which was a severe cold and throat trouble, that he recommended the medicine to his friends and parishioners. In the drug store and calling for the medicine, they always asked for Father John's Medicine, and in this way the medicine got its name and was advertised.

The Old Prescription Book

Father John's Medicine is a safe family remedy for colds, coughs, throat troubles, and as a tonic and body builder, because it does not contain opium, morphine, chloroform, and any other poisonous drugs, or alcohol, but is all good, wholesome, nourishing.—Advertisement.

FREE DELIVERY

It costs a Big Department Store in New York City nearly a quarter of a million dollars every year just to deliver goods to customers. You know very well that a store must provide for this enormous outlay by selling its goods just so much higher than it would sell them if it had no delivery.

Apply the same reasoning to local conditions. The grocer, or butcher, or baker, who delivers goods to your house must charge for delivery in the price of goods. It is a free delivery—for him. It costs him nothing. But you pay for it every time.

If you prefer to have your goods delivered, the parcel delivery takes care of you, and you know exactly what it costs. If you carry your goods home from a delivery store, a delivery system, you pay for neither delivery nor delivery. It is always included in the price of the goods. If you carry your goods home from our store, you are not paying for the other fellow's delivery, and you save exactly what it would cost us to deliver it. It is worth saving.

Of all the departments in our wonderful FOOD MARKET, none is more interesting than our Bakery. Everything is made in our own sanitary shop in varieties such as are found in only a few Boston bakeries.

GUNMAN TELLS BAFF DEATH PLOT

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 17.—"I was hired by Ippolito Greco to put Barnet Baff out of the way. I went to Washington Market twice to look over the ground and decide the best way to kill Baff.

"One night I went with Giuseppe Arichello, the Zefarono brothers and others to a Hudson River pier where a trap had been set for Baff. This was a week before the murder. Baff did not appear, much to our disappointment.

"I worked hard to carry out my part of the agreement. And would you believe it, I didn't receive a cent for my services."

There was a tinge of regret in the youthful voice of Carmelo Russo, alias Charley Ross, confessed thug, robber and gunman, as he made this startling statement to District Attorney Swan.

Calmly and in a matter of fact manner the convict confessed that he was an agent of men that murder for pay. That he was professional killer, a lawbreaker and from a social standpoint a menace, did not seem to enter the mind of the young man.

He thought only of the "big piece of change" that he lost because his arrest on a robbery charge prevented his taking an active part in the assassination of the wealthy poultry man.

The gunman was brought to town from Napanoch Reformatory, where he is now serving a sentence for a second assault and robbery. He soon convinced Judge Swann that he was not in the murder car on the night of the slaying of Baff.

But he admitted frankly and smilingly that he knew all the figures in the underworld that took part in the murder. He told enough to warrant Judge Swann's assertion that he could be of great assistance to the State.

In great measure Russo corroborated from personal knowledge the confessions of Archiello, the gunman, and Ferrara, chauffeur of the murder car.

The trail of the murder conspirators has extended to faraway Atlanta. Judge Swann announced this the go-between who carried the stake from Baff's business rivals to Greco's band of Italian gunmen has been located in Albania.

This man is at present serving as a corporal in the Italian Army. Italy will be asked to extradite him.

DORCHESTER MAN INJURED BY FALL

Gerald Doherty, thirty-five, unmarried, of Saxton street, Dorchester, was seriously hurt while at work at the munition plant of the American Steam Gauge Company, Camden street, Roxbury, when he lost his balance and fell about eight feet, striking the corner of a packing case. His chest was crushed and his head, right hip and ear injured. He was removed to the City Hospital.

FLOCK OF ROBINS IN FRANKLIN PARK

While robins are said to winter regularly in certain Cape Cod towns, it is rarely they visit Boston, yet a flock of nearly a score is reported seen near the big flying cage in Franklin Park, evidently seeking food after the deep snowfall.

Hans Schmidt Prepares to Die in Chair

To Be Executed at Sing Sing Tomorrow

HANS SCHMIDT, former clergyman, to die in chair, and Anna Aumuller, his victim. Schmidt killed the young woman while she lay asleep in a Harlem flat, and dismembered her body.

New York, Feb. 17.—Hans Schmidt, former clergyman who on September 2, 1913, murdered Anna Aumuller, will be electrocuted at Sing Sing prison tomorrow morning, unless some unexpected event intervenes.

Within the last fortnight Schmidt has entirely abandoned hope that he may escape the chair. He has turned his attention almost exclusively to the task of preparing himself for another world.

Schmidt was a clergyman at the time he killed Anna Aumuller. She had met him while she was a maid in the parish house of St. Boniface's Church.

While she lay asleep in a Harlem flat Schmidt cut her throat and dismembered her body.

The body was cut in o six parts, which schmidt wrapped in paper and cloth and threw, one at a time, into the Hudson River from a ferryboat.

MANY WRECKS FROM GALE IN NORTH SEA

London, Feb. 17.—Millions of dollars damage has been done by the gale which swept over the British Isles, the North Sea and the coast of Holland during the past twenty-four hours.

It is feared that there has been considerable loss of life at sea, for at least ten fishing boats, which received no advance notice of the approaching storm, have failed to report. They carried about eighty men.

The work of the British patrol fleet of warships has been greatly hampered and many of the ships had to seek anchorage. However, there was no danger from attack, as the seas were so high that enemy ships could not approach the coast. Many mines have been washed ashore.

The Norwegian steamship Hjordis was blown ashore on Blakeney Point, near Norfolk, and ten men were drowned. The seamen were trying to reach shore in lifeboats when one of them was swamped.

Three men were drowned at Porthcawl when the fishing boat Narcissus dragged her anchor and went aground.

BOSTON WOMEN READY TO PLAY PART IN WAR

By CONSTANCE WILLIAMS.

Mrs. Samuel J. Mixter, wife of one of Boston's famous praqtitioners, is an ardent advocate of preparedness and may be seen almost every day conferring with other representative women at the headquarters of the Massachusetts branch for women of the National Security League, No. 601 Boylston street.

When asked to tell why women should believe in preparedness, she replied:

My forcmost reason is this. If I am patriotic, I must show it in some practical way, and not merely think it.

This whole subject of organization grows upon one. The women who are here interested in the National Security League are more than ever convinced of the helpfulness of our organization.

Inquiries come from all over. We have now about fifty branches in this State. We hope to double that number before very long.

AIMS OF ORGANIZATION.

Then I believe this agitation about preparedness not merely expresses the patriotism of women, but it opens out a new opportunity for women, to be of service in the event of war with any nation.

None of us wants war. We are no peace-at-any-price persons. We are just simply proving that we know what to do if war should come upon us.

We know what houses are to be obtained in Boston and the suburbs for temporary places for the wounded. We know what to do in case of emergency should Boston be besieged.

Food values and how to make the food go farthest in cases of scant supplies. If we had to do without sugar, we know what use could be made of other materials.

WHAT WOMEN CAN DO IN WAR.

It is not simply that women can sit at home and make bandages. This work, of course, would be undertaken.

Many women can drive automobiles; others can be of inestimable service to the Red Cross Society.

In short, we women are studying just what we would do if this country faced a war. Our hands could be placed upon a hundred agencies which would help and advance our interests.

It is especially desirable to get the young women interested. They have done their part, but we are hoping to get more.

There are hundreds of things we are planning, and we believe there is no woman in Boston but who can show her patriotism in the ways that we are pointing out to them in the event of war.

FIRE DRIVES OUT NUNS IN MALDEN

Fire in the Cheverus School at Irving and Ferry streets, Malden, drove out the twenty sisters of Providence who make their home there. They were awakened by smoke and, after dressing hurriedly, fled to the street.

The fire started in waste paper in the third floor. The prompt arrival of firemen prevented the blaze from becoming serious. The loss was estimated at $200.

MRS. MOHR IS EXPECTED TO RETURN SOON

Providence, Feb. 17.—Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mohr, whose mysterious absence from this city has caused worry to her counsel and friends, is expected back here by Sunday, it became known today.

By her absence Mrs. Mohr missed seeing a man who came quietly to Providence with a statement that he represented a wealthy New Yorker, who wishes to buy the Mohr villa at Montpelier, which is to be sold in the liquidation of the Mohr properties.

While the return of Mrs. Mohr on Sunday is now looked for the same mystery about her absence continues. The disappearance of the widow acquitted in the Mohr murder case was announced exclusively in yesterday's AMERICAN.

The widow left Providence suddenly on February 5, the third day after she was acquitted. Taking her two children she started for the home of her sister, Mrs. Eugene Sullivan of Taunton. It was expected that she would remain there for a rest and for freedom from publicity.

NOT AT TAUNTON.

But the mother and children did not go to Taunton. Mrs. Sullivan said at her home that her sister and the children not only were not there but had not been there at all.

It was reported that Mrs. Mohr went to McWeensville, Pa., the home of Augustus Mohr and Mrs. Ellen Hogan, brother and sister of the late Dr. Mohr.

Mrs. Sullivan wrote to McEwensville. She received reply that Mrs. Mohr had not appeared in that town.

Then the mystery developed as to the whereabouts of the widow and the children. It was concluded, for lack of specific knowledge, that Mrs. Mohr was so overcome by the terrible strain of the past few months that she felt obliged to go into a complete retreat, where she would see no one whom she knew, not even relatives.

CONFER ON VILLA.

The New Yorker who came here representing a possible purchaser of the Montpelier villa conferred with a man connected with the Mohr estate.

When all the Mohr property is sold the widow gets the first $5,000 in cash and one-fifth of the balance for herself.

Art Museum Exhibit.

An exhibition of Summer work by students in the Boston Art Museum School will be held in the trustees' room of the museum one week, beginning Saturday.

$2,000,000 in Munitions Shipped Daily to Europe from the United States

Washington, Feb. 17.—War munitions from the United States now are sent to Europe at the rate of nearly $2,000,000 worth daily, with the figures growing rapidly as production increases.

Estimates made at the Department of Commerce today put total munitions shipments since Europe began to purchase for the present war close to a quarter of a billion dollars. At the present rate, the next four months would see this total doubled, even if production remained at a standstill; but production is declared to be growing faster now than at any time since American manufacturers began conversion of their plants into munitions factories.

More than $100,000,000 worth of high explosive shells have left American shores. Powder comes next with shipments of nearly $100,000,000.

Small cartridges are third with $20,000,000. Firearms, including ordnance, exports are put at less than $20,000,000.

Dorothy Jordan License to Wed Next Saturday

A marriage license was issued today at City Hall to Miss Dorothy Jordan, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan of Beacon street, and Monroe Douglas Robinson of New York. Application was made on Saturday. They are to be married next Saturday in Trinity Church.

Miss Jordan is a leader in Boston's young society set and a member of the Vincent and Chilton Clubs. She is one of the cleverest dancers in society here, and has frequently taken part in charitable entertainments in this and other cities.

Mr. Robinson was graduated from Harvard in the class of 1909. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Robinson and nephew of former President Roosevelt.

N. Y. "OLD GUARD" IS OUT FOR ROOT

New York, Feb. 17.—"Old Guard" Republicans of New York will launch a serious boom for Elihu Root for President. Three of the delegates at large to the Chicago national convention, named at the Carnegie Hall gathering today, set about making plans to spread the Root propaganda throughout the country. They are United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., State Chairman Fred-Elon R. Brown. William Barnes is also for Root.

Harvard to Have Nobility Member as 1917 Lecturer

Harvard is to have a member of English nobility on its teaching staff during the second semester of 1917. The Harvard Corporation announces the appointment of the Hon. Bertrand Arthur William Russell of Trinity College, Cambridge, England, as lecturer on philosophy.

Professor Russell is heir-presumptive to the earlship of Russell, which is now held by his brother John F. S. Russell, a bachelor. He is the second son of the late Viscount Amberley and came to America for his bride, who was Miss Alys Smith, daughter of H. Pearsall Smith of Philadelphia. Professor Russell is a fellow of the Royal Society and delivered several lectures at Harvard two years ago.

Another important appointment announced at Harvard is that of Shailer Mathews, the well-known dean of the Divinity School of the University of Chicago. Dean Mathews will deliver the William Belden Noble lectures this Spring under the auspices of the Phillips Brooks House Association.

GETS DIVORCE ON FIRE ESCAPE PLEA

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 17.—Gino Torelli's statement that his visits via fire escape to the apartments of Mrs. Adelaide Brown Oxenham were to protect her, fulfilling an oath he had made to her father on his death bed, failed to impress Justice Greenbaum in the Supreme Court. He granted a decree of divorce to Alfred J. Oxenham, assistant cashier of the National Bank of Commerce. Torelli is a violinist.

9 DEAD, 4 DYING IN SCHOOL SHOW FIRE

By International News Service.

Mexia, Tex., Feb. 17.—Thirteen dead may result from last night's fire that destroyed the Mexia Opera House while the public school annual art exhibition was on.

Nine persons were killed and four of the fifty who were injured are not expected to recover.

Those killed were Professor A. B. Weisner, superintendent of the public schools; Mrs. Weisner, Professor A. C. Burton, Claude Johnson, Oscar Johnson, Paul Yeldell, Ray Cox, Ray Hitt and Charles Womack.

Those expected to die are: Mrs. John Davis, Mrs. Roy Bass, M. R. Pierson and Mrs. Lyle. Professors Weisner and Burton were the heroes of the fire. They remained in the burning building assisting panic-stricken women and children to safety until the roof fell in upon them.

The fire destroyed an entire business block. The loss was $100,000.

100,000 TURKS CAPTURED BY RUSSIANS

modern warfare. The Turks fought desperately, but one by one the mighty forts were taken by the Russians, who charged with the bayonet through gaps made by their artillery. Turkish gun crews were bayonetted as they were still working their weapons, many refusing to surrender.

Within the line of forts the Turks, under direction of German officers, had constructed an elaborate system of trenches. There they made their last stand in defence of the city, but from the time that the forts fell the issue was never in doubt. Under a curtain of fire from the Russian guns, preventing reinforcements being sent to the troops in the trenches, picked regiments of the Grand Duke's army drove forward.

Unable to retreat because of the storm of shells falling behind them and overwhelmed by the fierceness of the Russian attack, the Turks fought on in their trenches for two days, but when their ammunition gave out great masses surrendered.

The capture of Erzerum is hailed in Petrograd as one of the greatest victories ever won by Russian troops. The city is celebrating the triumph, while military experts are predicting a rapid advance of Grand Duke Nicholas into the heart of Armenia.

From army headquarters Emperor Nicholas today sent a message of congratulation to the Grand Duke.

DR. DOLE RESIGNS AFTER 40 YEARS

The Rev. Charles F. Dole, for forty years minister of the First Congregational Society, Unitarian, of Jamaica Plain, has tendered his resignation, to be acted upon early in April. Mr. Dole states his wish that he be relieved of his charge on July 1, when the forty years of service will have been completed.

Mr. Dole, who has been very prominent in anti-preparedness circles and as president of the Twentieth Century Club, expects to reside in Jamaica Plain, and to take part in its activities. He is a brother of Nathan Haskell Dole, the noted author, and was born in Brewer, Me., May 17, 1845.

TROLLEY CAR STARTS "FIREWORKS"

People in Roxbury Crossing were startled this afternoon by a daylight display of fireworks when the trolley of a City Point car flew off the wire and, coming in contact with the steel railroad bridge, sent huge flame and sparks shooting in every direction. Men and women scampered for safety. Nobody was injured. There were no passengers on the car, which was just about to start. Traffic was tied up a half hour.

FITCHBURG MAN HOSPITAL SUICIDE

Fitchburg, Feb. 17.—John Ojala, a young man in an advanced stage of tuberculosis, committed suicide today by cutting his throat with a razor in his room in the tubercular ward of Burbank Hospital. He gave no reason for his shaving kit. Later he was found dead.

FACSIMILE of letter received by New York newspaper signed by Jean Crones, widely sought as the Chicago poisoner. The police believe the letter is authentic. The letter confesses a wholesale murder attempt and expresses sorrow because it was not successful.

And I started right away to H Work. I worked till late in the night & every day and I prepared the poisons but the most dat a bitter taste. Later I agreed for Arsenic and Barium Chloride. I bought some more arsenic and son I hat 66 grams Arsenous Oxide and 120 gr A_2O_3 and 60 gr Barium Chloride. Then I made 480 gr. ($Mg\ H_2N_2O_2$) (C.P.) and very dry this. I took along when I made My Escape. No one in the World has known those things before. After I hat placed the poisons in little quantities in different dishes which were redy for the diner. After that I went home. I took a solution of Lime of Glorin water and sulphuric acid and made my hair whitter as schnow two times I was overkommen by the gases evolved. Then I left home with nothing but my clothes some explosives and some poison for also an knife an a Revolver. Those explosives are verey danger for the smalest shok causes an explosion which will have terrible results. I deny that there were any explosives in my room after I left.

POISONER IN LETTER SAYS HE IS SORRY 100 WERE NOT KILLED

I ran up to him and grabbed his arm and said, 'Hello, Jean.'

WANTS NAME KEPT SECRET.

"He stopped for an instant, gave me an ugly look and then shook himself free of me and said, 'Mind your own business.' Then he hastened away.

"The fact that Crones is an Anarchist and a member of a band of desperate men is no secret among his acquaintances. For these reasons I hope my name will be kept out of this case."

The man who saw Crones is well known about Boston where he has worked. He enjoys a good reputation in Cambridge where he is at present living.

Following is the letter received by the New York newspaper, many facts in which have proved to be true:

Everything I have read in the papers regarding my case is either foolish or untrue. I declare that this my story is true.

In America I am since the 5th May, 1913, and worked for three months in Castelo ed French restaurant, Grant City, Staten Island, as Chef. After that I worked for 1 Jahr in New York, and after that in Chicago, in Cleveland, in the Country Club and bak to Chicago.

At the University Club I was Chef of the cold West room and dit not have anything to do with the soup. I always was in the Radical Movement as a worker and as a true comerad to my fellow-workers. Meanwhile I have studied Science (Astronomy and Chemistry).

MADE GOOD PROGRESS.

As I did not have much money to go to the university I have taken up Chemistry at the International Correspondens schools in Scranton (Pa.). I proced with my study and made good progress. Thanks to the (I. C. S.) I payed monthly 16 $ and for the apparatus 60 $. Cash money were I have worked for.

As I love science I hathe religion, and a I have seen the menus for that Diner 12 days before I tought that it was a sanitary thing to make a good clean up. And I started right away to Work. I worked till late in the night and every day and I prepared the poisons but the most bat a bitter teste later I agreed for Arsenic and Barium Chloride. I bought some more arsenic and son I hat 66 grams Arsenous Oxide and 100 gr. As_2O_3 and 60 gr. Barium Chloride.

Then I made 480gr. ($Mg\ H_2N_2O_2$) (C. P.) and very dry this I took along when I made my escape. No one in the world has known those things before. After I hat placed the poison in little quantities in different dishes which were redy for the diner. After that I went home I took a solution of lime of Chloride water and sulphuric acid and made my hair white as schoey two times I was overkommen by the gases evolved.

Than I left home with nothing but my chlotes some explosives and some poison also an knife and a Revolver. Those explosives are very danker for the smalest shok causes an explosion which will have terible results. I deny that there were any explosives in my room after I left.

"GUN COTTON" ASBESTOS.

The six cans which the stupid Chicago police believed gun-cotton is nothing but asbestos, and in those six cans I received the six bottles of acid from the schools with the asbestos around for for save shipping.

I must laugh at the letters which the police fund. I dit never have any other letter but from home those letters and all my papers I burned before I left. No I have changed the color of my hair red, and I am working in a good position in a little town near New York. Nobody suspects anything here and I am save for the next.

When I have a little Money again I go to the University and finis my study. I am not afraid of the stupid police for I am not afraid of for the dead. When I go I take a good many along. I am sory that not all or at least a 100 got killed for the world will be more happy without them. I have a good portion of energy left and some intelligence and the next time I am going to use them so My next work in that line will be a full succes.

JEAN CRONES.

I am proud to be an Anarchist under if I was not Jean Crones, I would like to be Hreal.

All my work I do alone all the time so the police spies do not get the best of me and not get a chance to get promoted.

JEAN CRONES

OUTLINE PLANS FOR SUNDAY'S REVIVAL

The revival committee which is to have charge of the coming to Boston of Evangelist Billy Sunday met in the Tremont this afternoon to hear the Rev. J. W. Welch, Sunday's advance agent, tell just what the committee must do.

Last night in the Park Street Church members of the committee and a delegation of preachers heard the first statement of the evangelist's plans.

Today the Rev. Mr. Welch told the committee that Park square seems to be the best site for the tabernacle which Sunday asks be erected for him. He told the committee to go ahead arranging for its erection in anticipation of the October revival.

In the Park Street Church meeting, the Rev. Mr. Welch outlined the preparatory work necessary.

"Don't imagine that Billy Sunday has some magic wand that he waves over a community and performs a miracle," he warned. "You must realize that he cannot do alone the things that can only be accomplished by the mobilization of the Christian forces of the city.

"The question has been asked how Mr. Sunday and his type of preaching will be received by Boston audiences. I am willing to say that while he will offend some classes and some types in your religious life, if those his enemies to berate will have the wisdom to lay low, he will add 25 per cent. to the congregations of every rabbi, priest, Unitarian and Universalist clergyman in Greater Boston.

"We have a big business on our hands," he declared in outlining the plans for the campaign of organization. "We must organize at least 25,000 people on our various committees and boards. We are depending on you to develop public opinion, and I ask you to remember that it is only once in a generation that God stirs mightily the people of a great city.

"You will want a city battined with prayer before Mr. Sunday comes," he declared in outlining the great, comprehensive campaign of cottage prayer meetings which are to be held six weeks before the great revival opens. The prayer meetings are to be held in every city block.

"First we will divide Greater Boston up into twelve or fourteen districts. These will in turn be divided into as many sections as there are churches in each district. The sections will then be divided into blocks, and we want a committee of one man and two women in each city block to arrange for prayer meetings in houses in each block.

"We want 7,000 to open their homes and as many more to lead the meetings. This revival is not something to be worked up, it's something to be lived down.

"We want as ushers clean-cut men, big men, men who are known and respected in the community, for ushers. The ushers who stand in the rawdust aisles have a bigger importance than seating the people, passing the pail for money and opening the windows for ventilation.

"Their big business is to represent Jesus Christ and their characters. We want big business men, for we believe we have to reach the up and outs as well as the down and outs.

"Let's get away from the idea that this campaign is simply to get the crowds. We have a bigger business than that—to reach the last soul that is outside of Christ. The effect of it will be that 10,000 personal workers will family after city, striving to bring souls to Christ.

"Every Christian employed, man and woman, will be commissioned to bring the workers on every floor of office building, store or factory in the downtown section to Christ. This personal work should begin at once.

"We need four choruses of 2,500 singers each for the tabernacle. We will need 700 secretaries to take the names of those who hit the rawdust trail. We need 200 doorkeepers for the tabernacle. We want 200 ushers listed for the use of the Sunday party in getting about to conduct the campaign. We want 1,000 women workers for the meetings to be held in stores and factories and 500 for the luncheons to be given three times a week.

PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or, rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything often sours in the stomach, much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we regurgitate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and add a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing, and, furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys, and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Advertisement

DRAFT WILSON BILL ON ARMY INCREASE

Washington, Feb. 17.—The administration army bill was drawn today in skeleton form by the House Military Affairs Committee. It will not be completed in all its details for six weeks at least. Beginning today, the meetings of the committee are secret. The present plans of the committee, it is known, call for a standing army of 153,000 men. The number probably will be increased to 180,000.

The national guard will be increased from its present strength of about 104,000 to 400,000 or 500,000 as fast as it can be accomplished, if the bill passes. Control of the guard will be as the President directs.

The bill will incorporate in it the reserve bill introduced by Representative Caldwell of New York, providing for keeping men in the reserve, with some remuneration, until they are forty-five years of age. They will be divided into a first reserve, those who have been in the regular army within five years, a second reserve of men who have been with the colors within ten years, and so on.

The army bill also will have incorporated in it Speaker Clark's bill providing for doubling the number of cadets at the military academy and providing that anyone wishing to take the course in addition to the regular cadets may do so at cost.

The bill introduced by Representative McKellar of Tennessee, providing State military academies, also likely will be included in the general bill. It includes a grant of land, and provides that the federal government shall pay $40,000 a year to each one for its maintenance, with the State paying $40,000. Boys entering the schools will be required to serve seven years in the army after graduation in consideration for receiving their education.

DEFER ACTION ON BRIDGE FOR NEPONSET

The port directors have decided to hold in abeyance the application of the Metropolitan Park commission for a license to locate the proposed new Neponset bridge at the points on the Boston side fixed by the park commission, and that the objection to the location was voiced by a large delegation of members of the Dorchester Board of Trade. It was argued by Attorney Daniel T. O'Connell, speaking for the board of trade, that no alternative plan drafted by the engineering department of the Port directors, was the most practicable, less satisfactory to the remonstrants.

The alternative plan moves the abutments thirty feet up-stream and eliminates the shortening of the coal wharf dock, the feature that has caused protest.

Ex-Speaker John N. Cole, speaking for the Municipal Bureau of Industries, urged that the present dock facilities at Neponset be protected against any encroachments.

Chief Engineer Rablin of the Metropolitan Park Commission and Joseph F. Lyons, assistant corporation counsel, both expressed an opinion that the alternative plan would be more costly. The remonstrants contended it was in fact more economical.

Mayor Bates of Quincy said the position of his city was to adopt the most economical plan.

Upon suggestion of the Port Directors it was decided that the Board of Trade would ask for a further hearing before the Metropolitan Park Commission and urge the adoption of the plan agreeable to the Port Directors. The latter said they were powerless to fix a location, but they would urge the Park Commission to adopt the alternative plan.

Events of the Week Are Being Shown by Hearst Vitagraph

©BY HEARST-VITAGRAPH NEWS BUREAU.

At top, Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago, on his way to the Holy Name Cathedral, where he was installed as successor to the late Archbishop Quigley. Below, the remains of a new bridge across the San Diego river in California, which was carried away when two dams gave away.

A thrilling night trip in rough weather in a thirty-foot motorboat from Los Angeles to San Diego, Cal., obtained for the Hearst-Vitagraph News Pictorial the first and best pictures of the disastrous flood which resulted from the breaking of the Sweetwater dam and the deluging of the surrounding country by thousands of gallons of water. These pictures are being shown today in the Hearst-Vitagraph News Pictorial No. 13.

L. K. DeWein, Los Angeles camera man of the Hearst-Vitagraph was awakened from bed at 1:30 in the morning to rush in a taxicab to the motorboat, the only means of reaching San Diego at that time. On the time DeWein and a party of Los Angeles Examiner reporters arrived at San Diego they were drenched to the skin, and had had several narrow escapes from disaster. After leaving San Diego in an automobile the party got within five miles of the Sweetwater dam, keeping on, despite alarming reports of the breaking of another dam, conveyed to them by refugees fleeing to San Diego and safety.

CAUGHT IN QUICKSAND.

Many times the automobile was stuck in the mud, and in making pictures DeWein was caught in quicksand, and had become drawn in to his waist when he was rescued by other members of the party.

Two other interesting news features contained in the Hearst-Vitagraph are pictures of Archbishop Mundelein of Chicago, who was the object of an anarchistic poison plot at a banquet welcoming him to his new archdiocese, and pictures of Lindley M. Garrison, who resigned as Secretary of War, bringing about a break in the Wilson cabinet over the question of preparedness. Former Secretary Garrison posed especially for the Hearst-Vitagraph.

EXCITING RACING SCENES.

Among other interesting pictures composing Hearst-Vitagraph No. 13 are exciting racing pictures made at New Orleans, including a race won by Gabrio, formerly a plow horse; the British ship Canadian fired on by mistake by a French war vessel, showing the shell holes; daring ski jumpers sailing through the air at Minneapolis, society folk at Palm Beach, Fla.; latest fashions from Fifth avenue designers, newest fashions in cowboy mustaches, as worn in the Panhandle district and exhibited at the Cattlemen's Convention at El Paso, Tex.

Thrilling Winter sports which took place at the Dartmouth College Winter Carnival, Hanover, N. H., are shown in the Hearst-Vitagraph; an interesting view of the campanile arising over the campus of the University of California, odd pictures of Patrick Harmon, a man walking from coast to coast backwards, threading his way through the heavy traffic of Chicago streets, and a comic cartoon by T. E. Powers, the famous cartoonist, depicting the strenuous endeavors of "Parcel Post Pete" to deliver an elephant by parcel post.

MRS. BURRILL, 80, DIES AT SHIRLEY

Mrs. Katherine Burrill, eighty years old, of Shirley, died at her home early today. Mrs. Burrill was in good health apparently up to an hour before her death. She leaves a son, Thomas Burrill, who is constable of the town and was at one time a player on the Lowell New England League baseball team.

600 GUESTS AT GILCHRIST DANCE

Employees of the Gilchrist Company today received congratulations on the success of their thirteenth annual dancing party, for the benefit of the Gilchrist Company Benefit Association, which was held last evening in Paul Revere Hall.

More than 600 employes of the company and their guests attended. Among those present were President C. C. Ferris; Vice-President William Jardine; Superintendent James T. Chase; Directors Simon Vorenberg, Felix Vorenberg, Fred Vorenberg and Samuel Vorenberg; Assistant Superintendent F. W. Harding; Assistant Superintendent William Doyle and Office Manager T. W. Lane.

The committee in charge of the dance included the officers of the association: H. H. Heartz, president; A. St. Onge and Miss H. Grife, vice-presidents; Miss M. O'Connell, treasurer; F. Simpson, secretary, and T. J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the executive committee.

The floor director was A. St. Onge. His aids were J. J. Smith, J. Sullivan, William Doyle, F. Warren, J. P. Muir, J. Rabine, C. Chisholm, J. A. Dorsey, the Misses M. H. Burns, A. T. Cassidy, A. McLean, A. Handly, A. O'Connell, L. Shanahan, H. Punch and Mrs. A. Ward.

PRESIDENT MAY EXPLAIN 'ONE TERM' PLANK

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 17.—It became known today that the White House may shortly give out an explanation of President Wilson's theory of the one-term plank in the Baltimore platform, with some reference to William J. Bryan's position on the subject.

The explanation, it is understood, will be contained in correspondence between the President and some member of Congress.

Every indication at the White House today was that there is more concern over the uncertainty of Mr. Bryan's plans than the expected poundings fro mthe Republicans.

Political advisers of the President have decided to make the floor of the Senate the arena for the administration's defensive campaign. It was learned at the White House that Senators Williams, James, Lewis, Hughes and others are preparing to defend the President in vigorous speeches.

Representative Bailey of Pennsylvania, an active anti-preparedness advocate and an intimate friend of Mr. Bryan, said he was on the platform committee at Baltimore, and at that time the Nebraskan specifically stated the one-term plank should not apply to Wilson. He added that he has since talked with Mr. Bryan and that the latter believed the President was justified to seek renomination if he so desired.

Arthur Welby, convicted of stealing a diamond ring and an overcoat from his brother, James Welby, in the South Boston Court today, was sentenced to one month in the House of Correction.

GIRL GARMENT WORKERS HELD BY COURT

Bessie McCall and Elsie Toy, arrested on charges of assault growing out of the garment workers' strike, appeared in court today and their cases were continued until Feb. 23. Elsie Toy is known as the "Joan of Arc" of the garment workers.

The girls were arrested last week as the result of a clash at the corner of Harrison avenue and Beach street. They were acting as pickets when the police claim they tried to interfere with a strike-breaker, who was on his way to work. The police say the "interference" consisted of the modern Joan of Arc hitting the man on the jaw, knocking him down.

Miss McCall is alleged to have aided in knocking the man down. Confusion followed, and the girls are said to have withstood the attack of 15 infuriated women strike-breakers.

A call to the Lagrange street station brought a wagon-load of policemen, who placed Miss Toy under arrest. Then women bearing scratched faces denounced Miss McCall, and the police arrested her, too.

M'CALL SIGNS BILL FOR MRS. SHEA'S FUND

Governor McCall today signed a bill authorizing the city of Boston to pay $5,000 to Mrs. Nora Shea of No. 75 Carver street, mother of Ralph T. Shea, who was shot in Warrenton street two years ago by Patrolman Miller. The patrolman was tried for murder and was exonerated by a jury. The Governor gave the pen to Representative John L. Donovan of Ward 7.

GETS TWO MONTHS FOR NON-SUPPORT

Louis Lindstrom, thirty-eight, of Linden street was given two months in the East Boston Court today for failing to support his wife Annie and minor child.

Pennsylvania, Biggest Warship, on Maiden Trip

By International News Service.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 17.—With the Stars and Stripes flying at her mast head, the battleship Pennsylvania, the largest and most powerful sea fighter in the world, went to sea today on her maiden voyage. The big war machine is to have her trial along the coast and when she arrives at Rockland, Me., she will be put to speed tests. She will be to sea ten days.

The Pennsylvania is manned by a crew selected from the battleships Vermont, New Hampshire and the receiving ship Richmond. Extra precautions were taken to guard against accidents.

CHARGES DEATH TO PHILIPPINE BENCH

Manila, Feb. 17.—An American lawyer of Manila named Kelly, has been sentenced by the Supreme Court to six months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $500 for the publication of a book which says that General Noriel, the insurgent leader who was put to death in January, 1915, for the murder of a political enemy, was innocent and that sixty persons, including high officials and Supreme Court justices, were guilty of assassination in connection with the execution of Noriel and his two accomplices.

NEW MEXICAN REVOLUTION PLANNED

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Officials of the War Department today received information from the Texas-Mexican border that adherents of the former federal regime in Mexico are planning another revolution in that country. The man back of the plan for the uprising are all followers of the Diaz and Huerta factions. They are now in the United States.

It is understood that their plans call for massing a huge supply of arms and ammunition in Texas somewhere along the border where the United States patrol is light. At a set time the supplies will be rushed into Mexico and the uprising will break out at several points in the country simultaneously.

Leaders of the movement are now declared to be in Los Angeles, New Orleans, Galveston and El Paso. They are all being watched by agents of the Department of Justice. No move will be made by this government, it is declared, until the revolutionists take some action that would violate the neutrality of this country. They will then be placed under arrest.

The home of the widow of the late General Huerta at El Paso is under constant surveillance. Officials believe that the Mexicans concerned in the revolution are using it as one of their meeting places.

ARTIST GIBSON'S DAUGHTER ENGAGED

New York, Feb. 17.—The engagement of Miss Irene Langhorne Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, and George H. Post, Jr., of New York, was announced today.

This long hand very definitely points to straight thinking in terms of money.

For they tell us (manufacturers do) that before long you'll pay twice as much as $1.50 for suits no better—perhaps not as good. Some of the textile people no longer will guarantee their dyes. So it strikes us that any man would be wise to get a coat or suit now that he can be sure of, especially when he can save so much money.

FIRE REKINDLES IN RUINS AT FALL RIVER

Fall River, Feb. 17.—Fall River received another scare early today, when flames started in the ruins of the big fire that burned out the heart of the city's business section.

Dense smoke hung over the city and a general alarm called back the worn-out firemen. The new fire was caused by woodwork buried beneath falling masonry taking fire.

On account of danger from falling walls, South Main street will be closed to travel. The city authorities intended to dynamite the most dangerous walls today, but found the ruins so hot they could not approach them.

Michael O'Rourke, the watchman in the Steiger department store, where the fire started, was summoned before State Officer Richard Griffin and subjected to a severe grilling. Two tenants of the basement of the Steiger store, George S. Coleman and E. R. Wilson, were also questioned at length by Officer Griffin.

"We are determined to learn the real cause of the fire," said Mr. Griffin, "and later this week there will be an inquest.

The last of the supper-dances under the direction of Mrs. Hawksworth, will be given tonight at the Copley-Plaza. These dances have been an innovation this Winter and proved a great success, which gives the promise that they may be resumed next season with the same enthusiasm.

The dance will be in the large ballroom and about 250 guests, including most of the younger married smart set, will attend.

o o o

The George Lees of No. 617 Boylston street, Brookline, have sent out invitations for a bridge for February 28. The event is for the benefit of the Italian War Relief Fund, and Mrs. Lee will have tables in the drawing rooms, library, music room and dining room, and is expecting a sympathetic response to this cause.

THREE HURT IN FIRE AT NORTH ATTLEBORO

North Attleboro, Feb. 17.—Three firemen were injured, one seriously, by a falling ceiling during a fire which destroyed the Kendall Block on Main street early today. The loss is set at $30,000 by Chief Tufts.

The firemen, Joseph Evans, Fred Gehrund and Chief Harry Tufts were in a room on the ground floor when the ceiling fell. Evans was seriously hurt, but the other two escaped with minor bruises and burns.

Te fire is believed to have started in a photographer's studio on the second floor of the building. The block contained four stores, a number of studios, two club rooms and a tailor shop. It was two stories high, of wood, and in the heart of the business section.

HOOD MUTUAL BENEFIT ELECTION

Members of the H. P. Hood & Sons Mutual Benefit Association were told by Dr. Charles H. Hood at the association's annual meeting in Ford Hall that the firm's annual profit on a quart of milk last year for family trade was one-eighth of a cent. The association elected the following officers: Joe Le Cain, preside.nt; John R. Copithorne, vice-president; J. Edward Hatch, secretary; John A. Foley, treasurer; Ernest B. Small, K. N. Snoen and Samuel Thurman of Charlestown, Mark Brooks of Brookline, F. W. Willwerth of Forest Hills, J. MacDonald of South Boston, William Barker of Medford, Charles Ellis of the stores department, H. Dodge of Lynn, Louis K. Shovelton of Malden, Wilfred Chafe of Salem and Fred Boutin of Chelsea, executive committee.

MILK HEARING OPENS IN BOSTON

An investigation into the interstate transportation of milk in New England began today before C. C. McChord of the Interstate Commerce Commission at the Federal Building. Railroad men, milk distributors and milk producers were present from all over New England. At the opening of the hearing Commissioner McChord said: "Cases involving the New England milk situation will be heard. They include various cases in which unreasonable rates are charged."

CALLS MEN LESS COURTEOUS IN STREET CARS

"Men are growing less courteous as the years roll on," said Senator W. Prentiss Parker of Dorchester to the Street Railways Committee at the State House today in support of a bill to prohibit smoking in the closed compartments or vestibules of trolley cars.

"There is nothing more annoying to a woman, or even to a man who smokes," he said, "than a dying cigar that dies a slow and painful death in a street car. The roads can't stop it, but this Legislature can."

"It has been my experience," said Robert H. Magwood of the Christian Endeavor Union, "that the laboring man is far more solicitous of the woman in a street car than that type of man who dresses better and would like to pass himself off in this world as a gentleman."

Mayor Frank E. Stacey of Springfield, who introduced the bill, said that when a man smokes he expectorates and makes himself a public nuisance.

"I've seen six men with lighted cigarettes in a street car at one time, and that makes it a smoking car. Women and men don't like the odor," said the Mayor.

"Which do you like better, the smell of smoke or a garlic breath," asked Representative Kent of Pittsfield.

"Perhaps we'll be here next year to legislate against garlic," chimed in City Solicitor Beckwith of Springfield.

A Mrs. Dana of Boston told the committee that the Shawmut avenue cars are transformed into "smoking cars" five days a week, by men "who care nothing for the inconvenience of others."

The bill was favored by the Boston Elevated and numerous other railway lines.

Philip Meikelberg of Chelsea, the lone protestant, said that the rights of men are slowly being taken away from them. "In the summertime the women pile into the smoking seats at the rear of open cars, and what can we men do about it?" he demanded.

"What is your business, Mr. Meikelberg?" a committee member asked him.

"I'm a cigar maker," he answered.

GIVEN FREELY TO PLANT JUICE MAN

Somerville Lady Gives Testimonial in Hope of Helping Others.

Plant Juice is new. In a brief time it has sprung into worldly pronuncience. There is no known medicine so effective in combating those prevailing ailments which are sapping the life and energy of city people, namely, stomach and nervous disorders.

Many men and women who have suffered from stomach, liver and kidney troubles are now enjoying perfect health, due to Plant Juice, as their testimonials show.

In a recent statement, Mrs. Walter H. Senter of No. 29 Gilman Street, Somerville, who has lived in Somerville for over 20 years and has hosts of friends here, as well as in this city, stated:

"For two years I had suffered with dyspepsia and indigestion and could not digest my food as my stomach was all bloated with gas and I suffered awful distress, especially after eating anything. I had headaches and was very dizzy at times, so I could hardly stand on my feet. For weeks at a time I was laid up in bed and could eat nothing but milk and dry toast. I became so weak that I was unable to do my housework and lost steadily in flesh. I tried everything in the way of medicine I had ever heard of, but nothing seemed to relieve me. I had read so much in the home papers about what Plant Juice was doing in Boston and vicinity that I got a bottle and started to take it. The first dose that I regret is that I did not know of it sooner, for it would have saved me weeks and months of misery, as it has now put my stomach in good condition so that I can eat anything I want and digest it. I sleep well and I have had my nerves up, have no more dizzy spells or gas, for Plant Juice has made a new woman of me and I am entirely cured of all my aches and pains. Four bottles of Plant Juice have saved me hundreds of dollars and I am only too glad to recommend it to others."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

The Best Way for a Man to Get Up in the World Is to Settle Down to the Task

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

MARCH 25 DATE OF FIGHT

Tom Jones Finds Out It Suits Willard, "Tex" Rickard Says It Suits Him—So It's Settled.

By SAM P. HALL.

CHICAGO, Feb. 17.—Jess Willard and Frank Moran are to clash in the boxing arena of Madison Square Garden, New York, on the night of March 25 unless something happens to prevent in the time intervening. That was settled yesterday.

Thomas Warden Jones, the champion's guiding hand, arrived in town from Gotham and consulted with Willard concerning his illness.

After the conference, in which Dave Lewis, "Tex" Rickard's Chicago agent, took part it was announced Willard would fight all right, but a postponement was positively necessary. Then Jones called on Rickard on the long distance and informed him of the facts. Rickard asked if Willard could get ready by March 25, and Jones said he was sure of it. That settled it.

JESS HAS LOST WEIGHT.

There is little doubt but that Willard actually has been sick. He looks the part today, having lost considerable weight while confined to his home in Rogers Park.

Willard had the following to say regarding his condition:

"It is absolutely out of the question that I fight Moran March 8. My cold still bothers me, but is leaving rapidly. I have not been out of the house since Saturday.

MEANS TO BE RIGHT.

"I hope to get back in training next week and fit myself. I will probably more on than the public trust this lead to come up and mar the match, but given a fighter you fight. I'm getting lots of money to fight Moran and I wouldn't pass up such a chance, but when I start in this battle, or any battle, I'm going to be right.

"There are two reasons for this. First, I am going to keep that title as long as I can and I'm not going to fight out of condition. Secondly, I owe it to the public that pays to see me that I be at my best. I could go in and shade Moran probably in my present condition, but the public demands more of me than that and I'm going to give it to them. I'm going to score a knockout victory if it is in me and to do so I must be in shape."

OFFICIAL AMERICAN LEAGUE SCHEDULE FOR SEASON OF 1916

HARVARD SET-TOS PLEASE

Though Boxers Rigged Out with 12-Ounce "Cushions," There's a Knockout Among "Doings."

ONE "stopped" bout, two knockdowns and a couple of "bloody noses" were the sum total of the casualties cited at the preliminaries in the Harvard boxing tournament, put on in the Homeaway Gym. yesterday afternoon.

Although the gloves were twelve ounce "cushions," there was some spirited milling, furnishing excitement enough to cause Bob Fitzsimmons, Jr., who witnesses the matinees at the invitation of Manager William L. Robinson, to declare he enjoyed every minute of it.

Jimmy Walsh, the professional featherweight, was the third man in the ring in most of the bouts, although Al Delmont, his once great rival, officiated in several numbers. The work of both men was quite satisfactory, although one or two decisions left some room for argument.

The college youths boxed three two-minute rounds and the only method of getting the full route was in the 125-pound division, when Ralph Howes of Hyde Park, stopped K. Cooke of Boston in the second round.

"CRUMS" HAVE IT OUT.

One of the closest bouts of the session was between Louis Bevier of Brooklyn, and Ed Bates of Medford. Crums and roommates, Bevier piled up a big lead in the first two rounds, using a tantalizing jab, which landed so often that it quite plainly had his opponent rattled. In the third chapter Bates came to life and slugged Bevier all over the ring, but did not connect with points enough to make the go a draw.

Walter Whitney, the football halfback, and "slugger" Buck slammed their way through three fast rounds, Whitney pulling down the decision. Both men boxed alike, but Whitney's footwork in clinch and his general all-around aggressiveness earned him the verdict.

J. Stacy Brown, Newport tennis star and society man, met a hummer in seventeen-year-old Albert Kelso of New York, in the 145-pound class. Brown, a former Andover champion, had the longer reach and soon pecked his way to victory.

Lou Hammett of Portland Me., demonstrated that Delta Sigma Phi Beta Sigma man can do some thing other than "grind" by creaming Laurie Dennis of Washington, in the same class.

BOND GETS TRIMMED.

Al Geer, a veteran middleweight, disposed of Martin Bornstein of Roxbury, who was game, but woefully outclassed. Rufe Bond, the former Everett High football star, was slow and uncertain and Paul Hartley of Stockton, Mo., took his measures handily in the only bout in the 175-pound class.

The semi-finals will be staged next Wednesday, and the finals on the Union two days later. The feature bout on the last night will be between Oran Kirkpatrick, former Harvard strong man, and Johnny Bigelow, the football player, the two entrants in the heavyweight class.

Kirkpatrick is said to be a live wire and his trainer, Strong Allen, plans entering him in the New England and National championships, both of which will be held in Boston.

Yesterday's summary:

115-POUND CLASS—F. Meyer defeated E. S. Eagler; three rounds.

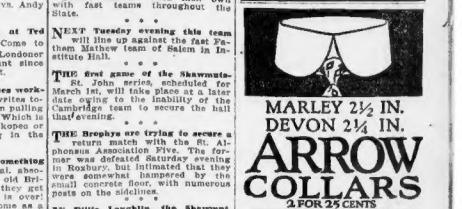
125-POUND CLASS—L. H. Bevier defeated E. Bates, three rounds; R. Howes defeated B. Cooke, stopped, second round.

135-POUND CLASS—H. Dowdy defeated R. J. Felgel, three rounds; J. H. Kampmeier defeated A. S. Ellenberger, three rounds.

145-POUND CLASS—J. S. Brown defeated A. D. Kelso; three rounds; R. F. Cahill defeated L. H. Hammett, three rounds; C. Delmont defeated L. Dennis, three rounds.

158-POUND CLASS—O. Kirk defeated G. Jones, three rounds; A. J. Alda defeated L. P. Jones, three rounds; A. N. Geer defeated M. Bornstein, three rounds; W. Whitney defeated C. Buck, three rounds.

175-POUND CLASS—P. H. Hartley defeated H. H. Bond, three rounds.



New Date Suits Moran, Who Wants Champ at His Best

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Feb. 17.—"Wagehut waiting" was the attitude at the training quarters of Frank Moran at White Sulphur Springs until the International News service representative informed Manager Dorgan that Tex Rickard, promoter of the Willard-Moran fight, had announced that it will be held March 25.

In the absence of Moran and his trainer, Willie Lewis, who left yesterday for a short visit to Pittsburgh, Dorgan was holding down the fort alone.

"The postponement," said Dorgan, "will please Moran greatly, for the reason it will prevent any possible cry of physical unfitness after the fight by the followers of Jess Willard. Frank is only too glad to give Willard every opportunity to get in first-class condition when he enters the ring."

SOUTH BEND LANDS OLD CHICAGO STAR

South Bend, Ind., Feb. 17.—Lee Tannehill, former third-baseman of the Chicago White Sox and recently with the Des Moines (Western League) club, has been signed to hold down third base for South Bend. Outfielder Meister and Catcher Withrow have been secured from Wheeling.

Forkey Too Fast for Field at Springfield

Springfield, Feb. 17.—Ernest Forkey of Springfield was the hero in the New England amateur speed-skating championships. He started in three events, the quarter, mile and two-mile, and won an many firsts.

Ernest L. Hickson of Indian Orchard, the 1915 champion, was among Forkey's victims.

Harry Taorne of Boston piled up the second largest number of points. He won the half and five-mile races. Also two event Forkey remained out of. Mrs. Frank MacMillan of Fort Lee, N. J., landed first in the women's half-mile race. Only two local girls competed against Mrs. MacMillan, who led from start to finish.

NOTED MAT MEN DUE TO SIGN UP TODAY

Waldek Zowsake, the Polish wrestler, and Youssuf Hussane are programmed to meet in New York today and sign articles for a return engagement in Boston. Hussane, through his manager, Jack Curley, has already accepted the terms offered by Promoter Tuohey and Zbyszko is expected to swing into line.

JUST AN EARFUL

By Tad

Bob Smit: told us a pip the other night. He went to Brooklyn to see Jack Britton fight Dummy Martin.

The latter, who is a real tough slugger, is not blessed with much cleverness, while his opponent is about as fast as they come.

Well, the fight was going on to the sixth round, and Britton was making a holy show of the Dummy. He jabbed the latter at will and made him miss by more than four feet, pulling big laughs from the crowd.

In the sixth round Martin was wild with rage and tore after Jack in a do-or-die fashion. He chased Britton around the ring, once missing six swings in succession. The latter then stood up close and let Martin swing again, but not one of the ten swings he shot at Jack landed on the target.

At that moment a kid in the gallery yelled down: "Hey, Martin, you ain't no dummy; YOU'RE A BLIND MAN!"

Red Sox Open at Fenway Park on April 12

The official American League schedule for 1916, as announced, gives the World's Champion Red Sox their home opening on the first day of the season April 12, they having as opponents the Philadelphia Athletics. The Connie Macks are here for a four-game series which should serve as a fine attraction for a curtain raiser.

The fans of Boston will have seen Bill Carrigan's men in action on April 11 at Fenway Park, with Bill Sweeney's Boston College team wheeling their appetite for the big show.

In the drawing up of the schedule the local team fares very well, being allotted twelve Saturdays with April 15, Sunday, a Mid holiday date, and Decoration Day, another great baseball day.

On the road the World's Champions are in Philadelphia on July 4 and in New York on Labor Day, which should prove big drawing cards for these holidays.

Bill Carrigan's men play Washington, following the Athletics, which enforces the 19th of April. They leave for a series at Washington, returning for four games with New York, followed by a long home stay, playing the Western clubs. This home schedule should give them a good start. It is also attractive to the fans, who by that time will have caught the baseball fever and be ripe for the game as played by the champions.

The conflicting dates come at Chicago on May 7, June 25 and September 28. The White Sox have thirteen Saturdays and fourteen Sundays while Boston has only eleven. If the club is up there in the race.

The New York club draws twelve Saturdays at home and plays at Washington on July 4.

RING REMARKS

TOMMY O'KEEFE, the tidy Philadelphia glovesman, who goes on with Frankie Mack, the Beachmont whirlwind, at the M. A. A. tomorrow night, is expected in Boston today.

PERISH the thought that O'Keefe is bogus. That family never did trot out a false alarm in any sport—or anything, anywhere. While the "Tad" boys installed Mack a 5-4 pick over Tommy, the boy from Unconscious City (Tad) must be afforded a good look-in.

OTHER bouts at B. M. A. A.: Eddie Lyons vs. Cyrus Goodwin, "Kid" Lee vs. Young O'Neill and Charley Sheppard (he's well again) vs. Andy Morrissey.

SO, Jack Britton repeated at Tad (Kid) Lewis' expense. Come to think of it, the larruping Londoner hasn't been at much accord since Mique Glover put him to rout.

FOR all that, Lewis continues working. Manager Johnston writes today stating that Ted keeps on pulling down some $10,000 a month. Which is far better than receiving a kopeo or two a day for performing in the trenches.

HOWEVER, trench toil is something Lewis, Welsh, Wells et al. absolutely refuse to do. Maybe old Bridgeville tell 'em where they get off at when the big muss is over. They'll be no welcome at home as a bomb-toting nut in any old spot these sizzling days.

LEWIS has three more bookings this month, to wit: February 21, Jimmy Duffy, Buffalo; February 24, Harry Trendell, St. Louis; February 28, Harry Stone, New Orleans. After that he's going up in the mountains for a rest, pens Colonel Johnston.

JOHN MILLER of Fairhaven, Al Shubert's manager, sends word that his boy will be cherry ripe when he meets Johnny Ertle at New Bedford next Tuesday night. Miller pooh-poohs the report and will have trouble making 118. He says Al could do as low as 114, if necessary.

SHUBERT is boxing daily with Lightweight Jimmy Greenwood and it is Miller's tip Ertle is in for one elegant trouncing.

BASKETBALL NEWS—NOTES

THE Shawmuts have returned to Boston for their second New Hampshire trip with a record of two wins in as many starts. Rochester was their first victim by a 60 to 9 score, and then the clever Franklin team was downed 29 to 18. Shawmuts will return to Franklin on March 15, and it is probable that that game will settle the New England championship.

ROXBURY Neighborhood's clash with the Dennison House five tomorrow night at the Neighborhood court. The rivalry between this pair is keen and a fast game is assured.

LEO MCDONALD, who has been representing the defunct Cambridge Red Sox, is now a member of the new Lechmere Five of Cambridge.

OTHER well known players sporting the winged "L" are "Midget" Cooper, John Drinnon, John Enous and John Rielly. The team is being managed and coached by John Egan, who feels confident that the Cottage ville lads can hold their own with fast teams throughout the State.

NEXT Tuesday evening this team will line up against the fast Faneuil Hall team of Salem in Institute Hall.

THE first game of the Shawmuts-St. John series, scheduled for March 1st, will take place at a later date owing to the inability of the Cambridge team to secure the hall that evening.

THE Brophys are trying to secure a return match with the St. Alphonsus Association Five. The former was defeated Saturday evening in Roxbury, but intimated that they were somewhat hampered by the small concrete floor, with numerous posts on the sidelines.

IN Billie Laughlin, the Shawmut star, the newly organized Cambridge City Five have secured one of the fastest players in the State.

THE Gardner team of the Roxbury "Busy" Club is going along in fine style. Larry Whalen, the centre, is raging baskets with much ease. He is trying to make a record for the season.

GEORGE RENKERT is making much progress with his Co. B team of the Military League.

THE Waverly S. & A. Club have been greatly strengthened by the acquisition of Cotter and Gately of the Roxbury Neighborhood House Five.

Old-Timers Bowl.

The Old-Timers' Bowling Association will hold its weekly session tonight at the Massachusetts alleys, No. 138 Massachusetts avenue.

Mahan and Boles Fail to Show Up in Cage

Seventeen candidates for battery positions on the varsity baseball team at Harvard presented themselves to Coach Fred Mitchell yesterday afternoon in the cage on Soldiers field.

Eddie Mahan, whom Harvard is banking on to bring home the series with Yale and Princeton, did not report. Whether Mahan is on probation, had a previous engagement or did not care to bestir himself so early in the season could not be learned. "Billy" Boles, star of last season's nine and Mahan among the pitchers, was also an absentee.

Wilmot Whitney, who made his "H" last season, had a short confab with Coach Mitchell and then donning for his bout in the boxing tournament. Willcox, another "H" man, will be busy with the track team until March and did not report. "Dick" Hatte did not dress for play, but had a long chat with Mitchell.

Wally Garrett was the only "H" pitcher in sight. Safford, who promises to be a sensation for Harvard, and Stephens, of last year's freshman team, were the most promising of the catchers to put in an appearance.

Frank Coolidge, substitute outfielder, and "Mickey" Reed, who made up the last year's team, with Captain Hennie Nash, took part in the practice. The battery men reporting were: W. T. Hardy, R. M. Loring, C. L. Harrison, H. H. Hosmer, W. G. Garrett, E. de Anthony, D. Anthony, A. D. Weld, H. H. Stephens, T. H. Safford, W. Whitney, H. S. Boyd, M. Rees, H. Mutchins, M. F. Delano, D. J. O'Keefe and R. B. Tyler.

KILBANE MUST COME CLEAN—SAM HARRIS

Cleveland, O., Feb. 17.—That Sam Harris, promoter, and Henry Bleiser, manager, intend to go to the courts if necessary to force Featherweight Champion Johnny Kilbane to meet George Chaney in the proposed 15-round bout at Baltimore, March 17, is evidenced by the thoroughness with which they are carrying out their part of the contract.

Bleiser says he has forwarded his $1,000 forfeit money to "Billy" Rocap of Philadelphia, as per word of contract, and Harris announces he will likewise put his $5,500 for Kilbane's guarantee one week before the date of the battle, as the contract provides. Kilbane has declared he does not intend to fill the Baltimore engagement.

DAME CALLS OFF MEET.

Coach Harry Dame has cancelled Lynn English Track data with Dartmouth for March 3. Coach O'Flaherty is all wrought up over Dame's action and will appeal to the school to arrange the meet at a later date.

BEMIS HANGS UP RECORD.

C. H. Bemis, Jr., of Medford High's track team did nine feet ten inches in the standing broad jump in the dual meet with S. C. High and it is claimed as a new interscholastic record. Medford won, 28½-24½. Cosgrove took the 660-yard run in 1:22 2-5.

Art Donahue Saved Game for B. A. A.

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

If Art Donahue hadn't been awake at all times B. A. A. might not have got their game from the Harvard Club. The latter organization played rings around Freddie Huntington's team, but all their efforts to get the puck by Donahue were unavailing.

It was the case against the Hockey Club of New York, B. A. A. played very sluggish hockey. Her forward line was hardly up to their usual form and while both Huntington and Skilton played like defensive games neither one of them seemed able to handle the stick with any degree of efficiency.

The game resolved itself into a duel of goal tends, and though B. A. A. did win, the honors were practically even, for Chadwick continued his wonderful net work throughout. However, he wasn't called on to stop any shots that equalled those which went Donahue's way. In all Chadwick had twenty-eight stops to his credit, while Donahue had twenty-one. Donahue time after time left the net and brushed aside shots that looked certain to result in scores.

Almost constantly Captain Freddie Huntington left the back field to Skilton alone while he devoted his time to charging with the forward line. This style of play gave B. A. A. its first counter, for less than three minutes after the game started Huntington picked a long one down through the center of the ice and a goal resulted.

Throughout the remainder of the half there was an abundance of fast skating, and on several occasions it looked as though Harvard would score. The Crimson alumni often penetrated the B. A. A. outerworks, and more than once were inside her second defence. Donahue was there the job however, and no bad results came until just before the half ended.

Then with only seconds left to play, Bub Phillips worked his way down through the B. A. A. line and shot for the goal. Donahue struck the puck with his hand and knocked it down, but unfortunately into the net for Harvard Club's only tally.

The second half was greatly similar to the first, and almost until the very end it looked as though an extra session would be necessary. With less than three minutes to play Osgood and Hutchinson worked their way down through and on a series of pretty passes the latter shot the puck into the net for the winning goal.

New Plunge Record.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—New world's record for plunging the length of a sixty-foot tank was held today by J. P. Lechter of the Chicago Athletic Club. Lechter plunged the distance in fifteen seconds. The former record of 19 1-5 seconds was held by Craig Redmond of the University of Chicago.

American League Magnates Get Together, While Commission Inters Feds' Remains.

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Two meetings of much interest to the baseball world will convene here this afternoon

The American League magnates will go into session at the Hotel Walcott, while the National Commission officially inter the remains of the Federal League at the Waldorf-Astoria

Many trade rumors are floating around the air. The most important of these is the report from Chicago that Joe Jackson will be traded to the Yankees for Fritz Maisel.

Manager Rowland is said to be more than willing to part with the slugging outfielder and appears very well disposed toward the proposed trade for Maisel. Following his failure to secure Frank Baker, the present Yankee third baseman looks mighty fine to the White Sox manager.

The National commission will endeavor to make some compromise in the complicated situation in Baltimore, where the International League has flatly refused to come to any agreement with the Federal League club in that city. This is one of the serious questions before the governing body.

Yale Nine Loyal to Its Captain, While A. A. Gasps

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Feb. 17.—Arthur W. Wilburn, one of the five Yale athletes declared ineligible for the remainder of the college year for violating the Summer baseball rule, was unanimously re-elected captain of the nine at yesterday's election.

Officers of the athletic association went up in the air when they heard the news of Wilburn's re-election. While he will be unable to play it is thought the authorities will permit him to direct the team from the bench.

Merman Vollmer Hangs Up Three New Records

By International News Service.

New York, Feb. 17.—Herbert Vollmer, New York A. C. chatterer, two American and one world's record in winning the 200 yard metropolitan swimming championship in the club natatorium last night.

Vollmer clipped the 200 yard American record of 2 minutes, 14 seconds by 3 1-5 seconds, the 220-metre American record by 1 1-5 second, swimming the distance in 2 minutes 24 1-5 seconds, and the world's record for the furlong, made by Charles M. Daniels in Pittsburgh in 1905, by three-fifths of a second.

Vollmer's time for the full route was 2 minutes, 24 1-5 seconds.

Old Rivals Get Dates on B. C. 1916 Menu

A Southern trip of seven games and ten home games, in addition to contests with Harvard at the Stadium and Tufts at Medford, comprise the attractive baseball schedule issued by Boston College today. The season will open with a game with the Red Sox at Fenway Park, April 11.

Dartmouth and Georgetown are back on the schedule, but this year the Green is to be met at Hanover, instead of in Boston. A notable feature of the menu is that two games have been arranged with the Maroon and Gold's old rivals, Holy Cross. One will be played at Worcester and the other at University Heights. Manager John Mitchell announces the following schedule

April 11, Red Sox at Fenway Park. April 17, Fordham at New York. April 18, Trinity University at Washington. April 19, Georgetown at Washington. April 22, Maryland Aggies at Mount Pleasant. April 24, Tufts at Medford. April 28, University of Vermont at Boston. April 29, Colby at Boston. May 1, Georgetown at Boston. May 6, Fordham at Boston. May 8, Tufts at Medford. May 11, Wesleyan at Middletown. May 13, Amherst at Boston. May 15, Holy Cross at Worcester. May 20, Trinity at Boston. May 22, Annapolis at Boston. May 27, Mass. Aggies at Boston. May 30, Wesleyan at Medford. June 1, Brown at Providence. June 3, Harvard at Cambridge. June 10, Rhode Island State at Boston. June 12, Holy Cross at Boston. June 14, Holy Cross at Worcester.

McRoy One of New Owners of Indians

Cleveland, O., Feb. 17.—George P. Steele, representing the bankers' committee in charge of Charley Somers' financial affairs, announces that Ban Johnson has taken over the Indians for a price said to be $500,000.

Two of the new owners are J. C. Dunn and P. S. McCarthy, contractors of Chicago. The identity of the two other purchasers will be made public later. Dunn and McCarthy came here yesterday with Mr. Johnson and conferred with the bankers and Mr. Somers.

While no confirmation could be obtained, it is declared that Robert McRoy, former business manager of the Boston (American League) club, will be one of the new owners of the Indians, and he will live here and represent his partners.

Lee Fohl will be retained as manager and several new players will be given him to strengthen the club.

MASKED MARVELS ON TUOHY'S CARD

Karavich, the Serbian heavyweight, and Karl Lemle are the headliners on tonight's mat card at the Hippodrome. It will be Karavich's first appearance in Boston, and, if he is all that is said about him, Lemle will have to show the nifliest kind of form to avoid defeat.

Lemle reports himself in great shape. They will go best two out of three falls, catch-as-catch-can variety.

Promoter Tuohey secured a splendid substitute for Leavitt, the newly champion, as an opponent for Frank Hockmann. The "sub" is Hellmer Johnson, the blonde Swede, who was one of the runners-up in the international tournament in New York and who put up an fi matches with Aberg [illegible] 25 each and the other stars.

In the preliminaries Joe Willis will be paired with a fleshless man, and a pair of "Masked Marvels" will try to settle their differences without revealing their identity.

SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

Things happened recently to clear the atmosphere in several quarters, for instance: Home Run Baker has found a new home and the Cleveland club new owners.

Baker will become a hero in New York, where once they dreaded his appearance. His return to the game needs no apology, nor do I consider he has given one. If magnates claim the right to change their minds why not the ball player. Baker probably regrets having been away from it all, but he will feel like [illegible] a great while to get his start.

The fans of Macon will gather in large numbers to watch the Yankee infield at play. Jobs there: Joe Nay, short right and left field for us. The boys who enjoy chasing balls will find plenty.

Marty McHale's return to the Red Sox is an event. He gave promise of being a great pitcher during his early days with the club under the management of Mr. J. J. Taylor. Both Manager Carrigan and Manager Carrigan feel he will be of value. Marty has a host of friends in Boston and New England who will be pulling for him.

Manager Stallings believes in preparedness in base ball. He is having things his own way in the contract of the club and his first move after purchasing three good players, he to get 18 pitchers together at his plantation, The Moccasins, Hahnock, Ga.

Bill James is reported to be headed in that direction, while Manager Stallings speaks of the big pitcher as being in shape, I feel sure he wished to be shown. It will make a whole lot of difference where the club finishes in '16. With James pitching as he did in '14 there will be nothing to it. With James out of the pitching department doesn't look any too strong.

Today the clubs represented in the [illegible] league of baseball are covering New England territory, hoping for permanent organization, and of course bringing [illegible] the guest of president T. H. Murnane for so many years head of the Triple A New England League. It seems to be the logical outcome, and I shall see the officers [illegible] pave the way for the organization.

PLAN BIG FIGHT FOR BOSTON HARBOR

Washington, Feb. 17.—Massachusetts Congressmen, headed by Representative Tirrell, the State's ranking member of the House, and Harbor Committee, will make fight in the House for a favorable channel for Boston and the Cape Cod canal harbors bill which has been reported to the House.

This fight will be waged on the ground that the Hoosac tunnel and New York barge canal projects are in the bill at the request of President Wilson. The Massachusetts Congressmen will insist that if any new projects are carried in the bill, that Boston harbor be among them.

The committee report voted down by a strict party vote and the fight will no go upon the House floor. It is estimated that there is needed to complete the work on a forty-foot channel for Boston that $1,534,000 will be required to finish it.

LIGGETT MANAGERS IN CONFERENCE

The New England managers of the Riker-Jaynes, Riker-Hegeman and Liggett drug stores met at the Westminster today to hear the official announcement of the amalgamation of the different stores into one concern to be known as the L. K. Liggett Company.

The company was formed last week at the offices of the United Drug Company, Boston.

The officers elected are George H. Gales, president; John S. Alley and William C. Watt, vice-presidents; R. B. Watkins, treasurer; Henry R. Andrews, secretary; R. H. Haas auditor; L. K. Liggett, F. L. Hutchinson, R. B. Wattley, W. J. Rash, H. R. Andrews, J. A. Crane, George H. Gales, John S. Alley and William C. Watt, directors.

The Liggett stores number 45, and the Riker-Jaynes and Riker-Hegeman stores number 167, making a total of 152 stores owned by the new company. The Riker-Hegeman stores will be known as the Liggett-Riker-Hegeman stores; the Riker-Jaynes stores will be known as the Liggett-Riker-Jaynes stores, and the Liggett stores in cities where there are no Riker-Hegeman stores will continue under the present names.

The Liggett company, which takes its name from its founder, Louis K. Liggett, president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, is owned by the United Drug Company of Boston, the stockholders of which are 2,700 retail drug store owners throughout the country known as the Rexall stores.

C. H. Johnson of the Buick Company has returned from Europe, where he went bringing back stories of famous drives and midiron shots recorded by J. H. Machine, Joseph Lee, Arthur and George Crittenden. He says the trio are playing golf in France with difficulty and saving all the benefits possible from a stay in the South. Mr. Johnson thinks is looking fine, in spite of his health and says he is ready to tackle the Spring season no matter how fast business may come.

Lawrence H. Flake, local manager of the Michelin Tire Company, is spending the week in Canada visiting the big cities in that country. The Michelin business in Canada has increased to a remarkable degree since the war defence bills. A radical raise in the income tax rates for this class of business, it is understood, is contemplated, upon dispatches regarding the sentiment of Congress says:

"Nine out of ten Democratic members say the income tax should bear no relation to preparedness. They are willing to vote for a thirty-three per cent. surtax on incomes of more than $20,000 a year."

Representative Rull of Tennessee, the statesman who fathered the income tax law now in force, is working on a measure which will be passed by this Congress, it is predicted.

WHO PAYS THE TAXES.

For the last fiscal year individual income taxes in this country totalled $41,046,162. Returns show that there are 126 persons in Massachusetts with incomes ranging from $100,000 to $150,000 a year, forty-four with incomes from $150,000 to $200,000, fifteen with incomes from $200,000 to $250,000, six with incomes from $250,000 to $300,000, three with incomes from $300,000 to $400,000, six with incomes from $400,000 to $500,000, and three who have incomes of $500,000 or more. In the State of New York, the home State of the author of $500,000 a year or more, and 426 struggle along with incomes between $100,000 and $150,000. Next to New York Massachusetts is the home of wealthy taxpayers.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Including $18,500,000 just obtained, Argentina has borrowed $64,500,000 in this country since the war began.

The American cow is contributing to prosperity.

Exports of condensed milk last year amounted to about $8,000,000. In normal times foreign shipments have not amounted to more than $2,000,000. Increased European consumption accounts for the increase in 1916.

New business is coming to the United States Steel Corporation at the rate of from 60,000 to 70,000 tons a day. Its daily shipments are about 40,000 tons. It cannot take all the orders offered.

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were irregular by noon in New York, that market growing stronger in the second hour, but still lining rather dull. There was not much more demand for stocks, but offerings were scanty. Bears were not aggressive, and there was no disposition on the part of traders to extend commitments far in any direction. The market continued to be dominated by professional sentiment as bearish on the whole. The international situation is confusing and the cause of great uncertainty to speculating.

Gains as 12 o'clock included Canadian Pacific 2¾, Union Pacific ½, Crucible 1¼, U. S. Steel ¼, American Smelting ¼, Studebaker 1, International Harvester ¼, American Can ¾, and Marine preferred certificates 2¾.

Among declines were New Haven ¾, Baltimore & Ohio ¼, Reading ¾, Southern Pacific ¼, Steel preferred ½, Petroleum ⅝, and Texas Co. 1¼.

Ammonia exchanged and several other coppers were still showing losses but were above their morning lows.

ZINCS HIGHER HERE.

Zinc shares were among issues which had improved in Boston by midday. A number of other stocks declined their losses but did not advance far enough to show gains. At the opening the local market was dull and only a few issues changed and were active. Trading broadened later but remained irregular during the forenoon.

Noon gains included American Zinc ¾ and Butte & Superior ⅝.

The market was declining, declines including Boston & Maine ¾, Copper Range ¾, Granby ½ and Mexican ½. Lake Copper, Osceola and United Fruit were unchanged.

United Fruit recovered a two-point loss, sustained in the first hour. The line here reflects business in New York during the morning.

The New York market opened quiet on a generally lower level, declining steadily the list developed a downward trend. But declines did not average large. The closing was better tone before the end of the first hour, but the rallying tendency was much stronger after the end of the forenoon.

CANADIAN WAR TAX PLAN.

Stock markets began to weaken yesterday as soon as speculators commenced to ponder proposals of government leaders in regard to a war tax in Canada. It will have considerable effect upon the earnings of a number of companies, if it becomes law.

It is proposed to impose a tax of one-half per cent. on the excess of the excess of seven per cent. upon paid up capital of all incorporated companies carrying on business in the Dominion.

Agricultural and life insurance corporations are exempt, but the building or insurance associations, wheather incorporated in Canada or doing business there, will be taxed. Also, a portion of their assets during the next five years. Dominion currency or bonds and debenture stock.

Individuals, firms and partnerships in Canada will be required to pay one-half per cent. on the excess of their profits in excess of ten per cent. of the capital employed in business. This taxation plan was what caused the slump in Canadian Pacific stock in New York a few days ago, and also the large decline in the market valuation of Spring shares in Boston.

HIGH TAX FOR RICH AMERICANS.

Should the United States in so go to the expense of maintaining peace by preparing for war, it is the intention of Democratic leaders in Congress to levy a substantial increase in the high defence bills. A radical raise in the income tax rates for this class of business, it is understood, is contemplated, upon dispatches regarding the sentiment Congress says:

"Nine out of ten Democratic members say the income tax should bear no relation to preparedness. They are willing to vote for a thirty-three per cent. surtax on incomes of more than $20,000 a year."

Representative Rull of Tennessee, the statesman who fathered the income tax law now in force, is working on a measure which will be passed by this Congress, it is predicted.

Money Market.

The Boston call rate is 2 per cent. Time rates are 3 to 3¼ per cent. for short dates, 3 to 3½ for six months and 4 to 4¼ per cent. for a year. In Canada commercial paper rates range all the way from 3 to 3½ per cent., mostly 3 to 3¼ for six months.

In New York, money on call rules at 1¾ per cent. Time rates are 2¾ to 2¾ per cent. for 60 days, 2¾ for 90 days, 2¾ to 2¾ per cent. for four months, 3 per cent. for five and six months. High grade commercial paper in the open market at 3 per cent. for regular maturities.

Sterling exchange opened quiet and practically unchanged. Cables 4.78⅝, demand 4.76⅝.

Cotton Market.

New York, Feb. 17.—Trading was active at the opening of the Cotton Exchange today. The tone was steady, with March selling at 11.61 and the first fifteen minutes prices were about unchanged from the opening level.

Cotton opening: March, 11.63; April, 11.75 bid; May, 11.85; June, 11.92 bid; July, 12.06; August, 11.15; September, 12.15; October, 12.17; November, 12.32 bid; December, 12.33; January, 12.31.

Chicago Grain Market.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—Wheat opened 1⅛ to 2⅛c. higher. Corn was ⅝ to 1⅛c. higher, and oats one cent higher. Provisions were higher.

Grain opening—Wheat, May, 1.31 to 1.30⅜; July, 1.24⅛ to 1.25. Corn, May, 79⅜ to 79⅝; July, 79¾ to 79⅞. Oats, May, 49⅜ to 49⅝. Pork, May, 20.97 to 20.98. Ribs, May, 11.65; July, 11.75.

NATIONS MUST TRADE WITH EACH OTHER

By B. C. FORBES.

New York, Feb. 17.—The world is in process of being apportioned into four great divisions for commercial and political purposes after the war.

These divisions are:

Pan-American, with the United States the most powerful factor.

The Teutonic nations, Bulgaria and Turkey, with Germany the predominant power.

The Entente, with Japan holding sway over China.

The Allied Countries.

When swords are sheathed, the battle of commerce will begin.

Already rumors are arranging to eliminate all tariff and other barriers between new and Austria-Hungary. Austrians suspect and complain that this would be a first and vital step toward the domination by the Kaiser, but the movement is being eagerly promoted.

Germany wants to be ready to fight the rest of the world commercially. She means to shut out from most of the world's markets by high tariff walls.

Japan is cleverly manoeuvring to gain the whip hand in China and trying to be able to control that great market for her own advantage and to the disadvantage of other nations.

To judge from discussions indulged in by Entente statesmen, they never never, never again going to have anything to do with Germany or German goods.

The allies are to work in commercial harmony as they have never more closely united than ever before.

Also, the British Empire is to be together on the battlefield.

Whether these general principles and tariff walls are to be built to keep out every ounce of German and Austrian products.

Instead of fighting, as now, behind trenches, a merciless commercial war is to be fought from behind tariff barriers.

A lovely prospect!

Every group of nations is to fight the others.

Hate is to reign, as now!

I don't believe it.

I believe that before arms are laid down hate will have been dropped rather than hardened the hearts of the warring nations.

Common sense will overthrown and new forms of government set up. Autocracy must go. Peace and in very large measure will be swept away.

But common sense will, I believe, prevail in readjusting the world's trade relations.

Nations must live together on the same planet.

They must trade with one another and nation trade with nation, if the comforts and conveniences and luxuries of life are to be sustained and attained.

They have revealed that the rank and file of every people possess courage—sublime courage—that all can do self-sacrificing. Valor is not the monopoly of all the virtues.

The world will grow less softer and more rational feelings once hands are locked in peace.

The dividing of the world into a few great trade compartments, now seen as disturbing, will come to be seen as lurierous.

The United tates may well lead the way toward more sensible action. Our country is unique in the fields available of selling to the world and buying from the world more than any other country. This war has placed us ready and willing to enter into friendly, reciprocal trade relations with any and every other land.

No Chinese wall will be built around our shores.

European countries when their sober senses return will make efforts to shut out other great groups of people are hurtful rather than helpful.

BEARISHNESS SEVERE TEST ON MARKET

By BOERSIANER.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—A sinister fallthough not essentially alarming) combination of war situation in Canada, impending disintegration of the Carranza government in Mexico, eruption of Elihu Rootism in New York and re-united bearishness in Wall Street put the market to a rather severe test.

The run of stocks stood the trial satisfactorily. While Canadian and American issues and a few specialty or two declined sharply, the market as a whole was resilient after having yielded fractionally.

The slumps in Canadian Pacific (6¾ points), in International Nickel, Dome Mines securities, and in the Mexicans were of a nature to have put no ordinary market to rout. That they did not do so strongly indicates that the underlying factors mentioned were either not surprised or known to be specious.

CANADIAN TAX.

The proposed imposition of a war tax by the Canadian Government of one-fourth of net profits in excess of 7 per cent. is not onerous, the conditions considered. Its effects would have been anticipated. Countries engaged in a prolonged war demand pecuniary as well as vital sacrifices.

Waiving President Wilson is there any doubt of Mexico will ultimately Senor Carranza to reconstruct that unhappy country? Surely none of Carranza's creditors indulge in such expectation.

Among the legion, these creditors Fortunately they are of many nations and, given a strong and wise administration in the future nation, the debt could easily be made what it was during the Diaz administration—a desirable investment.

To date Mexico owes in unpaid interest on government bonds $26,000,000, on government guaranteed railway securities $23,000,000, or a total of $49,000,000. Railroad and government obligations amount to $207,000,000, not a large indebtedness in these days of really imposing liabilities.

RICH IN RESOURCES.

A few years of civilized order down there would set matters right. The country is rich in natural resources. It is certain that the holders of Mexico's obligations would never consent to a different bond issue in a sum covering the interest in default and thus leave the community downharrassed.

But a firm and sagacious administration is necessary for it to be. Perhaps British, German, Dutch and American can have Mexico's securities on a quotation loss of from 50 to 75 per cent., while exchange on Mexico has declined from 49 to the invisible numeral immediately below 1.

What Mr. Root said of pre-bellum economic conditions here was true, but not new. His sentences were timely, however, and especially prevalent in the East was the charge that the war was not the result of Wall Street machinations. It was in effect carefully plotted in Berlin. This banality may be passed. What does deserve censure is the action of the imperfectly veiled attempt to shock the country on behalf of the allies.

For Mr. Root to pose as posterity is harmless and ridiculous. It is safe to suggest that America must eventually take part in the European war in a humanitarian way. This war has placed us ready and willing to enter into friendly, reciprocal trade relations with any and every other land.

No Chinese wall will be built around our shores.

European countries when their sober senses return will make efforts to shut out other great groups of people are hurtful rather than helpful.

The ABLER Members of the Harvard Faculty Have Endorsed Mr. Brandeis, Fortunately

THE petition filed with Congress against the confirmation of Mr. Louis D. Brandeis' appointment to the Supreme Bench is one of the most absurd documents which has pandered to the gaiety of nations in our time. The story of the tailors of Tuley street is repeated in that ridiculous petition.

Practically the whole force of three or four law offices in Boston—and poor President Lowell of Harvard—constitute the gentlemen who pretend to represent public opinion in New England. The fact that no women signed the petition makes it probable that the stenographers in these three or four different law offices were not asked to sign, but among the male gender of these three or four offices the conscription seems to have been without limit as to age or physical qualifications.

Everyone who knows the relation of things in Boston understands that these law offices, the modern Boston tailors of Tuley street, have clients whose interests at one time or another have been opposed by Mr. Brandeis in his public service work as "the attorney for the people." Whether President Lowell's family interests have felt the force of Mr. Brandeis' public work we do not know. It is more than likely that President Lowell is a mere dupe of abler and shrewder men.

It would be well for the Judiciary Committee of the Senate to summon President Lowell before them and inquire concerning his personal knowledge of Mr. Brandeis' conduct and learn whence he gets his ideas of Mr. Brandeis, and how much he personally knows about him. It is too bad that Harvard College, so great an institution, should be misrepresented by its president, whose mediocre talents make him so easy a victim to shrewd men who constitute his personal environment.

Mr. Brandeis is a Harvard alumnus. He is one of the most distinguished of the living Harvard alumni. His work has shed great glory upon the institution. Harvard ought to be and is proud of Mr. Brandeis—far more proud of Mr. Brandeis than of President Lowell, whose talents against the talents of Mr. Brandeis are like "the flickering candle in the sunlight."

Fortunately, the abler members of the Harvard faculty have promptly endorsed Brandeis and have thus saved the great body of the alumni from feeling ashamed and disgusted with officialdom at Harvard.

"Gasoline Not to Be Taxed"

Copyright, 1916, by the Star Company.

THE above humorous statement comes from Washington. It appears that our wise lawmakers have decided that they will not tax gasoline in order to raise money needed for preparedness.

Congress probably decided not to tax the people that use gasoline, realizing that the oil monopoly does that kind of taxing thoroughly.

Let not gasoline users imagine that they are gaining anything because GOVERNMENT doesn't tax them. They will be taxed to the limit by those that control the oil monopoly.

Within a year, one hundred per cent. has been added to the price of gasoline, and the price will go higher.

Suppose GOVERNMENT had put a tax of one hundred per cent. on gasoline. How the people would have roared! Congressmen voting for such a tax would have been driven from office.

But private individuals, men with no right to lay taxes better than the right of a burglar to break into a house, put a tax of one hundred per cent. on gasoline, a necessity of modern life, and the people endure it.

Americans were not always so patient. Perhaps they will not REMAIN so patient.

We are inclined to think the Oil Trust and dealers in gasoline that follow its price list will, before long, enjoy the sensation of prices regulated by government.

Once-Overs

Are you expecting that some time in your life something will come your way whereby you will make a lot of money—enough to put you beyond want for the rest of your life?

So you are figuring, are you, that it would be foolish for you to attempt to lay aside enough for your old age when there is such a chance of luck?

If you have ideas such as these you had better consider cold facts for awhile.

How do you expect to make a lot of money if you have no money to invest?

What do you expect to cause this golden shower?

When you analyze these dreams of yours don't you perceive they are nothing but the airy fabric of a wish? They are day dreams of detriment. They make you unstable, undependable.

Get rid of them. What you get in this world you have to work for.

Don't think of getting windfalls; get busy.

Work, with determination to win, will bring success.

But you can hold your mouth open a long time before any one will drop a plum into it.

The Wireless System of the Human Skin

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects.

THE human skin is one of the wonders of the world, and we don't half appreciate its capabilities and its services.

Not that we don't value it highly enough as enclosing and sheltering our invaluable selves; "Skin for skin, yea, all that a man hath, will he give for his life," is as true now as it was in Job's day.

But we are apt to judge it solely by the bass and plebeian use to which ninety-nine per cent. of it is at present degraded, that is, merely serving as a wrapper, or covering, for the rest of the body.

We think of it simply as our most intimate and inseparable suit of underwear and value it accordingly.

So long as it behaves itself and keeps our surface evenly covered, supple and waterproof, we pay little or no attention to it; but the minute that it dares to assert itself and show that it has a mind of its own, by itching or smarting or cracking, we get annoyed at once and begin to abuse it.

We smother it with clothing, stifle it with airproof underwear, rob it of air, deprive it of light, bind it with straps and belts, chafe it with suspenders and collars, pinch it with corsets and then wonder that it resents and talks back by tickling and tickling and chafing.

Mother of Our Senses

We look upon it today simply as a husk or hull, totally forgetting that it is the mother of all our senses and sense organs; that out of its conjurer's bag came not merely the organs of special sense—eye, ear, nose and touch—but also the whole brain and nervous system as well.

And believe it or not as we will, though it has delegated most of its powers of seeing and hearing and smelling and thinking to its specialized children, every inch of it still retains the possibilities of every one of them and can use it on occasion.

Every square inch of our skin all over the body can still respond to light, to sound waves, to changes of electrical tension, as well as to heat and cold, moisture and dryness, sharpness and dullness, hardness and softness.

This may seem an extravagant statement, but it is literally the case.

The way in which the retina of our eye sees light, by chemical changes in tint of its so-called retinal purple, is the same in kind, though infinitely swifter and greater in degree, as the familiar fashion in which our skin turns yellow or brown on exposure to light in acquiring a coat of sun tan.

We still hear, though very faintly and dimly, all over our body surface.

Certain sounds, particularly a deeply vibrating or overwhelmingly terrifying and violent crash, make us tingle all over; and deaf mutes can hear the vibrations of a musical instrument by resting their finger tips upon it, and are now taught to speak by placing their finger tips upon the larynx of their teacher while a certain vowel is sounded, and then placing them upon their own throats and reproducing the same sound feelings.

Helen Keller assures her audiences that she likes to be applauded and can hear every sound of it at once "with her feet."

Of course, we all know that the skin has retained for itself, as its own specialty, the great sense of touch and feeling, really the mother-sense of all the others, with its perception of pain and pleasure, heat and cold, moisture and dryness, weight and electrical tension.

But what is not so generally known is that this wonderful "covering" of ours has a set of special finders or receivers known as end organs for almost every one of these separate powers.

So that a blunt needle point pressed firmly down upon the skin will, at one point, if it happens to impinge upon a cold electrode, produce a sensation of coldness; if it touches a warm electrode, a sensation of warmth; if it touches a pressure electrode, the sensation of weight, and if it comes close to a pain electrode, a twinge of pain.

The Finger Tips

The well-known difference between different regions of the skin in sensitiveness and delicacy of reaction to these different messages, such as the finger tips, for instance, is due both to the thinness of the skin and the close packed frequency of these electrodes; while the insensitiveness and dullness of the skin of the back, for instance, is due partly to its thickness and partly to their scarcity and wide scattering.

Up between the shoulder blades, for instance, these electrodes may be scattered several inches apart, so that there will be considerable areas where a needle may be thrust an inch deep through the skin and into the flesh without causing the slightest sensation of pain, and other areas where either the tip of an icicle or a hot wire may be pressed against the back without producing any sensation of cold or of heat, simply the sense of pressure.

These singular individuals who sometimes exhibit themselves as indifferent to pain, because they can thrust long needles two or three inches deep into their arms or legs, or even completely transfix the muscles of a limb without feeling any pain, merely have skins which are very thinly sprinkled and sparsely populated with pain electrodes.

So that altogether, apart from its mere covering and protecting duties, our skin is a lookout department of the highest and most important order, a wireless receiving station for a great number of different kinds of messages.

If we want to get along comfortably with the skin we must remember its ancestral dignities and respect its present powers of perception and sensitiveness.

A Breath From the Infinite Universe

Venus and Jupiter Are Now Wonderful and Inspiring Sight—Mars Is Showing His Snows and Saturn His Mysterious Rings, While Neptune Hangs Out Pale Sail Starward

By Garrett P. Serviss

GIVE your mind an inspiring breath from the infinite ocean of space by looking at the planets Venus and Jupiter, now so conspicuous in the sunset sky. Remember that they, too, are worlds as well as the earth. Venus is probably inhabited; Jupiter, though more than a thousand times larger, may still be too young as a planet to sustain life, at least in any such forms as we are acquainted with.

As you look at them in the sky, Venus appears to be much the larger and brighter of the two. That is a deception produced by distance. Jupiter is hundreds of millions of miles more distant. If they were equally far from the earth Jupiter would outshine Venus about 120 times. That is the proportion between the areas of their respective surfaces.

Venus is very nearly of the same size as the earth. In looking at her, then, you see how the earth would appear if we could view it a hundred million miles away. It would be only a bright star. The sunlight reflected from all its oceans, continents and clouds would be concentrated into a brilliant point, and this huge globe would be only a "diamond in the sky."

Who, Viewing Earth as Star, Would Imagine Limitless Conceit on It?

Who that had never lived upon it, looking at it thus would ever dream of the races, nations, empires; of the wars, conquests, explorations; of the cities, palaces, ships; of the inventions, rivalries, aspirations; or of the limitless conceit of which it has so long been the centre? All these things in a star! And a mock star at that, for the real stars are suns, not little planets masquerading in borrowed light.

If you have watched Jupiter and Venus lately you will see how they appeared to be drawing nearer together, until they resembled a splendid double star, and now they seem to be drifting apart again. These, too, are deceptive appearances. They were not nearing toward one another at all, but each is pursuing its own orbit about the sun, while the earth from which we look at them is also rushing swiftly on in its track. But the speed of each is different, depending upon its distance from the sun, which governs all these motions, and, besides, Jupiter is far outside the earth's path around the sun, while Venus is inside it, and thus another complication is introduced into their relative motions as they are seen from the earth.

It is as if our planet were a ship sailing in a circle, and Jupiter and Venus other ships also sailing in circles, going in the same direction around the same centre, but one farther and the other nearer than the earth, and all three moving with different speeds. You perceive how puzzling that might be to a passenger.

And then, over on the other side of the sky is Mars, traveling in an orbit between those of the earth and Jupiter, and just now rising in the eastern heavens while the others are sinking in the western. He is in a different part of his circle—that is all—but he belongs to the fleet. He has his red lantern out, and it gleams menacingly like a hostile signal.

Mars is the smallest of these planetary ships, but he looks more formidable than any of them on account of his color. It is the hue of war. He makes the superstitious afraid. He is a grim, compact battleship. If you look at him with a telescope his bulging circle of white polar snow at the edge of the ruddy disk has I cannot tell what strange suggestion of aggressiveness. It shines like the domed turret of a gun.

Great, Strange Rings on Saturn Bound to Make Every Beholder Gasp

There is yet another planet in this wonderful celestial procession. It is the ringed Saturn, hanging in midheaven, northeastward from Orion, in the rich constellation of the Twins. The circle that his ship follows is afar off, away beyond the tacking of Jupiter, and though he shows well because of his great bulk, yet there is something of the dimness and mystery of secretive distance in his look.

But turn your telescope upon him, and though it be for the thousandth time, you cannot repress a quick intake of breath at the sight of those great, strange rings! What do they mean? Why was that huge world hung round with such garlands of crowding, clashing meteors, which spin, circle within circle, and flash off the sunlight like whirling steel disks? Those rings of Saturn are the relics of a spinning nebula which ages ago condensed into a mistless skeleton.

Farther yet than Saturn, on a line of sight passing between him and Mars, invisible to the naked eye, but to be seen with a glass, like a faint nail on the remotest verge of the horizon, swims Neptune, nearly three thousand million miles away, the outer guardship of the solar squadron. But though he lies so far out in space, Neptune is practically no nearer that congregation of measurelessly remote suns than we are.

Cross Currents

By Jane McLean

LOVE is not love that has no pain about it,
The ache of sorrow in the word goodnight,
The long tomorrow, yet to do without it
Would take the gift of sight.

Love speaks in words with fingers clasped in fingers,
With eyes and lips whose messages are fleet,
But something dearer in our memory lingers—
Love's silences are sweet.
